Fire Damages T.G.& Y. Store

A fire at Kingsway Plaza Mall early this morning caused minor damage to the T G & Y Family Store, according to the city fire department.

The fire apparently began in electrical wires in the Southeast corner of the store near the greeting cards section.

The fire department said there was considerable smoke damage and some water damage done to the store, but no damage was done to other stores in the mall.

A grass fire at the home of the late Rev. Joseph Wagner, 1015 N. Kingshighway, burned out a grill on a 1971 Ford parked behind the house. Firemen said the fire, which began about 4:40 p.m., was by burning trash.

At 4:55 p.m. a burning trash pile spread to a shed at 229 Dixie. There was only minor damage according to the fire department.

At 4:40 p.m. firemen were called to a grass fire in a vacant lot in the 200 block of Trotter, apparently started by burning trash, firemen said.

Clean Up Boarding Homes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A firm policy statement by the state Board of Health Wednesday calls for legislation to clean up the socalled "bootleg boarding home" situation in Missouri.

The board called legislation to put boarding homes under Division of Health control "an urgent need" for senior citizens. It also endorsed a Housepassed bill sponsored by Rep. Charles Dickey, D-Mexico, which would require boarding homes to be licensed and regulated like nursing homes. That proposal is waiting Senate committee action.

Dr. Herbert Domke, acting director of the Division of Health, said the board also states it will back other legislation to accomplish what it considered three objectives necessary to protect elderly nursing home patients. They are:

Identification and licensing of a boarding home as one providing adequate and safe care for "those who are able to care for themselves."

Lions Hear About Anapolis

Admission to a service academy is not as difficult as sometimes thought, the Sikeston Lions Club learned Wednesday, from a presentation by C. L. Blanton, III, publisher of The Daily Standard.

A commander in the Naval Reserve and recruiter for the Naval Academy at Anapolis, Blanton said academies provide the finest education available. He also explained how the academies examine applicants' college board scores, English and math test scores, ranking in class and extra curricular activities prior to accepting the student.

Of the 7,297 applicants to Annapolis last year, only 2,410 qualified for admission, he said. Of that number 1,600 were offered admission and 1,332 actually started school.

Bennie Rapert, Cpl. Mo. State Highway Patrol, Charleston, Mo., has been extended an invitation by Mr. J.Edgar Hoover, Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, to attend the 89th Session of the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy beginning March 20, 1972, at Washington, D.C.

This will be an intensive twelve week training program for law enforcement officers at the Federal Bureau of Investigation facilities in Washington, D.C. and the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy at Quantico, Virginia. PATROLMAN Ray Merrick (left) surveys the damage while Patrolman Jesse Redd directs traffic at the scene of an accident that occurred about 8 a.m. at the corner of Malone and West Streets.

Three Vehicle Accident

Police said that the pickup truck driven east on Malone by James William Coke, route four, struck a car driven by Jack Lavell Cothern, 844 Agnes.

According to police a dump truck driven by Sylvester Murphy, 227 Luther St., pulled out of the intersection and into the path of Coke. Coke swerved to miss him and struck the Cothern auto which was stopped at a stop sign on S. West. The impact knocked the Cothern car into the dump truck.

Murphy said his view of the road was blocked by a truck parked on his right and he did not see the Coke car.

House Passes ADC-U Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House of Representatives passed a bill Wednesday that would reinstate Aid to Depdendent Children in homes where unemployed fathers are present.

The law to provide ADC in such homes expired last Dec. 31. If the new bill is enacted into law it would expire Dec. 31, 1975.

Last December some 750 families were getting ADC benefits even though an unemployed father was present in each one.

Also passed and sent to the Senate was a bill authorizing Platte and Clay county voters to decide whether they want their circuit and probate judges to come under the nonpartisan court plan.

The plan, now covering judges in St. Louis city and St. Louis and Jackson counties, provides that a judge runs only on his record and not against an opponent.

The House sent 21 bills to the Senate, mostly without argument.

Among them were bills to:

Increase membership on county welfare commissions from four to six and require that two of them be welfare recipients.

Set a minimum wage of $1.60 an hour on the measure's effective date, $1.80 a year later and $2 in two years.

Permit the use of passenger buses that are 102 inches wide on designated Missouri highways. Now the maximum is 96 inches.

Provide that law enforcement officers may get search warrants to search for hard evidence of crime, such as a weapon or a bloody shirt.

Permit the expunging of arrest records when the person is not charged and there is no indictment or information brought against him.

Repeal the old law that limits the work of employed women to nine hours a day or 54 hours a week.

Federal And County Juries Indict Irving

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal and county grand juries indicted author Clifford Irving and his wife today on conspiracy and other charges in connection with Irving's disputed autobiography of Howard Hughes.

The federal grand jury charged the Irvings with conspiracy and mail fraud.

The county grand jury charged the Irvings and the author's researcher, Richard Suskind, with conspiracy, grand larceny and possession of forged instruments.

A separate county indictment charged Irving, 41, and Suskind, 38, with perjury in the second degree. Suskind was named as a co-conspirator, but not a defendant, in the federal indictment.

The county grand jury accused the three in a 25-count indictment of grand larceny in the second degree, which covers larceny where extortion is not involved, and with conspiracy in the third degree.

Irving was released on a personal recognizance bond of $100,000.

Irving and his wife arrived at the U.S. District Courthouse at about 11:15 a.m. and went to the third-floor office of U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour Jr., declining comment on the county indictments.

The grand jury investigations began six weeks ago.

At the outset, Irving and his 36-year-old wife took the Fifth Amendment and declined to discuss the circumstances surrounding preparation of the manuscript.

But last week, after authorities met at length with attorneys for the Irvings in numerous sessions, the couple agreed to testify. Each appeared before both grand juries for about 90 minutes.

The controversey began with the announcement last Dec. 7 that McGraw-Hill Inc. would publish an "autobiography" of Hughes, the billionaire recluse. Life magazine said at the same time it would run excerpts from the book.

Rosemont Enterprises, a Nevada Corporation associated with Hughes, immediately denied the authenticity of the still unpublished volume. And a little-known novelist whose most successful book was "Fake!" suddenly became the focus of world attention.

Irving swore in an affidavit Jan. 18 that Hughes gave him permission to compile the autobiography, that he had interviewed the wealthy industrialist for more than 100 hours and that he had passed on to Hughes $650,000 intended by McGraw-Hill as payment for rights to the eccentric billionaire's life story.

Osborn Associates, the prestigious handwriting analysis firm, examined documents Irving said Hughes wrote or signed and came "overwhelmingly" to the conclusion that they were authentic.

School Busing

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, plans to stage his fight Monday in the Missouri Senate against compulsory busing of school children in order to achieve racial balance in schools.

Blackwell surprised the state legislature Monday when he introduced a resolution calling on the General Assembly to memorialize Congress to call a constitutional convention to overturn the U.S. Supreme Court ruling supporting busing.

The Senate Committee on Resolutions responded quickly Wednesday by approving the resolution, 4-0, sending it to the floor for debate.

"When this thing gets going," Blackwell said, "there'll be a lot more. The people are fed up with busing, and we're going to stop it."

Blackwell noted that state legislatures in Michigan, Georgia and Florida have passed similar resolutions. Two-thirds of the states would have to act before the Congress could call a constitutional convention to legally bar busing.

Blackwell expressed confidence Wednesday evening that both houses of the General Assembly would back the proposal.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louisl opposed the resolution before the Senate committee Wednesday, contending it would "set the clock back 100 years on integration."

Howard said the ramifications of the Blackwell resolution go far beyond the issue of busing.

Blackwell countered by accusing Howard of inserting racial considerations into every available issue before the legislature.

Delivery Attempt

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines officials were reported today to be negotiating with extortionists who planted bombs on two jetliners and demanded $2 million ransom. Police said one unsuccessful ransom delivery attempt had been made.

Extraordinary security precautions were in effect on TWA and other airlines after a sophisticated bomb exploded in the cockpit of an unoccupied TWA jet in Las Vegas Wednesday. A bomb was defused in the cockpit of a plane at Kennedy airport Tuesday.

A TWA spokesman would not comment on a report in the New York Daily News that negotiations were under way. Earlier the company refused to say "whether, or under what cricumstances, it would agree to pay ransom."

Despite the company denials, New York police said a private jet that landed mysteriously at Atlanta Tuesday night carried the $2 million the plotters demanded but that "no actual turnover was made."

TWA Chairman Charles C. Tillinghast Jr. refused to discuss the case with newsmen at a dinner Wednesday night. "It would only prejudice our position to say what we know or what we are doing," he said.

Investigators continued to work on the theory that the bombs were planted by one or more persons who were present or former airlines industry employes because of their obvious intimate knowledge of airline operations.

Commenting on the Las Vegas blast, a TWA spokesman said, "Whoever put it on the airplane has to know his way around the industry. He would have to know a considerable amount about the aircraft."

Charles Wyre, TWA general manager in Las Vegas, said the plane had been searched in New York after the bomb was found aboard the first plane Tuesday, and searched again after it arrived in Las Vegas.

One-Car Accident

EAST PRAIRIE — An accident at 4:50 p.m. Wednesday on Imogene Street sent four persons to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston where they were treated and released.

Passengers in the Scruggs vehicle were his wife Brenda, 22, and their two children.

Winthrop Rockefeller

CHARLESTON — Speaker at tonight's annual Chamber of Commerce dinner will be former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas. Industrial development for Charleston will be the topic of his address.

Tractor Mishap Injures Man

J.C. PHILLIPS, 49, of Three Beaird Dr., Sikeston, is in fair condition today at Missouri Delta Community Hospital following an accident yesterday in which his tractor overturned and pinned him to the ground.

According to police, Phillips was driving his tractor in the parking lot of the Homestead Distributing Co. on West Malone, about noon, when a wheel caught on a light pole and flipped the tractor over.

A forklift and jacks were needed to lift the tractor off Phillips. He received head and shoulder injuries.

AMERICANS AGAINST AMERICA

In our free society we have many learned people who believe the United States can do no right, while our enemies can do no wrong. Among these are a few senators, baby doctors, television commentators, and academicians. They demanded that we stop the bombing of North Vietnam unilaterally. We did in 1968. They demanded that we start withdrawing unilaterally from South Vietnam. We have withdrawn three-quarters of our men. They demand we treat Communist POW's in South Vietnam better, but say nothing of the Communist treatment of our POW's.

These friends of Hanoi and Peking demanded that we get Red China into the United Nations. We did so, unfortunately at the same time having to accept the expulsion of the Republic of China, a founding member and "permanent" member of the UN Security Council.

Now, in connection with President Nixon's visit to Red China, they have unearthed ex-State Department "experts" who told us in 1944 and 1945 that Mao TsTung was an agrarian reformer and even an "agrarian democrat" (whatever that is). These "experts" are now appearing on television and lecture halls to advise us that this is our great opportunity to make amends (for "McCarthyism") by recognizing Red China, and handing over Quemoy, Matsu and Taiwan itself. These characters have been demanding elections on Taiwan, but never speak of elections on the mainland, just as they favor elections in SouthVietnam, but not North Vietnam.

The record speaks for itself. Our concessions to the other side have not brought peace — only more aggression, more demands. Mao Tse-Tung, Ho Chi Minh and his successors, and Kim Il-sung are cut out of the same cloth. They regard our concessions as weakness. They count on the anti-Americans in the United States to prevail. Meantime they continue to repress their own people and to threaten their neighbors.

It is time for all Americans to stand up and be counted — for or against tyranny — wherever it may lie. Whether it be collective security in western Europe, the Middle East, the Caribbean or East Asia, the world is, unfortunately, still beset with aggressors. The right of self-defense is elementary. Just as we defend our own families and homes, we must stand with our friends and allies. Let them undertake more of their own defense, to be sure, but we will not abandon them.

FROM BLEAKNESS, A VOICE OF SPRING

The sound preceded them — the ancient, wild cry, full of the ache of seasons lost and the promise of those to come, falling down across the gray March morning from that distant region between hearing and remembering. The men, resting by their stack of cut wood at the field's edge, looked up.

At first they searched too low, just over the far treeline, as one always will. Then they raised their eyes straight up. And there, against the cold roof of sky, they found the geese — a hundred or more, not in the tidy V's of smaller flocks but in great shifting, unruly strings, hung nearly motionless on the wind, drawn by some fierce common memory to who knows what evening resting place.

The first pale wash of green in the woods behind was still a month or more away. The wood-cutters chilled inside their coats as they cooled from their work, and the calendar told them it would be more than a fortnight yet to spring.

Yet, in their minds, that high, clamorous passage — beyond seeing, now, but remaining in the ear — had rolled back the interval of bleakness and opened the way for warmth. Irrational, perhaps. Until you consider that there were men to mark the season's turn, and wild flocks to announce it, before there were calendars to prove their error.

WORDS WITH AN IMMORTAL ECHO

Abraham Lincoln's address at dedication of National Cemetery at Gettysburg, November 19, 1863:

"Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nations, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place of those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

DOWNFALL OF CHIVALRY

The late Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen once arrived a little late to address a women's group. He set things right with his opening sentence: "Girls, I'm a little breathless this morning -- who wouldn't be with all this loveliness and all this grace." Such a line definitely would not do in 1972.

In fact, Richard Reeves reports in New York magazine (Feb. 14, 1972) that President Nixon has a stack of memos on how to talk to and about women in the upcoming political campaign. One of them reads: "Don't use the pejorative compliment, 'I was noticing how beautiful the women look here tonight.' Do approach women as citizens." And a politician who dared refer to any female over the age of 16 as a "girl" would risk a lecture from Germaine Greer.

The woman thing seems to call for a whole different set of responses among politicians and ordinary citizens alike. For example, David Satter speculates in the Los Angeles Times (Jan. 30, 1972) about what might happen abroad the Titanic in 1972. Children would continue to get first place on the lifeboats, but women would consider preferential treatment mere condenscension. In the ensuing rush for the available places, it would be survival of the physically strongest.

Repealing chivalry is especially traumatic for gentlemen of the old school. To take off a hat in an elevator with a women's lib type is to court a karate blow. A gentleman ought to walk to the outside when accompanying a lady, but that gesture can mark him indelibly as a male chauvinist. In an age of role reversal, the weak have become strong, and the strong the weak. Ev Dirksen made it out just in time, leaving the rest of male-kind to manage as best it can under difficult circumstances.

WHAT ABOUT RURAL TRANSPORTATION?

There is continued pressure at Jefferson City to get the state to provide money for transportation (mass transit) in the St. Louis and Kansas City areas.

It is a serious problem for these centers of population, but we're inclined to believe that the rest of the state should not be asked to provide tax money for a means of travel for the big population centers.

Big city people may not know it, but in small towns and rural areas like ours, we also have transportation problems. With the elimination of railroad passenger service, curtailment or elimination of bus service, lack of taxis, there are many people here who can't get farther than walking distance from their homes without the help of a neighbor who owns a car.

We wonder if the people of St. Louis and Kansas City would be willing to help us solve that problem by taxing themselves to provide transportation for our people in Monroe County.

We don't believe so.

Our State Representative Osbourn seems to be thinking along the same line expressed above. We think he's right. — Paris Appeal.

AUTO CRASH SURVIVAL SAFEGUARDS STUDIED

New ways to build cars that would enable a restrained motorist to survive a 60 MPH head on crash against a solid object are being researched by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory.

Financed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the research will help determine safety standards for future production-line cars.

A major phase of the research program, CAL said, will be the design and development of a prototype of an actual on the road car. It will incorporate the most promising crashworthiness features conceived by CAL to help motorists survive severe collisions. Cost estimates of the new crashworthiness features will be made.

Three elderly gents were discussing the effects of old age.

The first man, 70, said, "My hearing is going. People have to shout at me to make themselves understood. I can't even hear when a girl whispers yes," he added, smiling.

The second man, 75, said, "It's my eyes that are affected. I can't always recognize faces and so I can't flirt with pretty girls."

The third man, 80, said, "My trouble is worse than either of yours. The other night I wanted to make love to my wife, and she said we had just finished making love. The trouble with me, gentlemen, is my memory is slipping."

At bedtime, a little fellow got down on his knees and began saying his prayers. When he was finished he began asking God for the things he wanted for Xmas. He called them out one by one in a particularly loud voice.

His mother said, "You don't need to shout. God isn't deaf."

"I know," he said, "but gran'ma is."

MORE CHAFF THAN NEWS

In the daily news as in nearly everything else, the wheat must be separated from the chaff. There has been a great deal of "news" about electric power reliability, much of it emanating from political sources and much of it calling for more government regulation of one kind or another. The implication is that the electric utility industry, particularly the investor-owned segment of it which accounts for nearly 80 per cent of all electric power generated in the U. S., has been insufficiently progressive in seeking a 100 per cent dependable electric power supply.

News of this kind contains considerable chaff. It overlooks hard grains of fact, mostly because research and development involve technical matters that are hard to understand and even harder to translate into eye-catching news. The taxpaying, investor-owned utility industry is moving ahead now, as in the past, to achieve as nearly as humanly possible the goal of 100 per cent reliability. On the eastern seaboard of the U. S., two major power companies have just completed laying a series of ten-mile long underwater electric transmission lines linking Long Island with New England.

SCHOOL BUSING AGAIN

Some of the leaders of both major political parties are saying at last that school busing simply for the purposes of racial integration is wrong. It is interesting to note that these leaders are from both the North and the South. They are talking about a constitutional amendment that would outlaw forced busing and put the educational process back where it belongs, in the neighborhoods. We have seen the present administration lament the Supreme Court decisions on busing but do nothing to alleviate a situation that both whites and blacks will tell you in private conversation is wrong. Most parents want to keep their youngsters in the neighborhood schools rather than see them spend hour after hour on buses going to neighborhoods across town for schooling. These parents have a valid point. Special committees appointed by district courts to administer the schools are replacing the officials who are elected by the people. The latter know the problems of education. They are dedicated public servants who have always worked without pay and who have tried to hire the best educators available. Education, not socialistic theories, is paramount with them.

The leaders of both parties realize that the school busing issue is probably the most critical of all in the forthcoming elections. With the voters, it surpasses Vietnam and deficit spending and unemployment. Even President Nixon has said he is making a study of the situation.

The future lies with the generation that is now getting its formal education. This has always been true. And it has always been true that politicians, no matter how socialist-minded they may have been, eventually will respond to the mandates of the people.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon's money raisers have opened some 200 accounts in Washington banks to circumvent a campaign fund reform which the President himself signed into law.

The new law requires a public accounting of all campaign contributions over $100.

At the signing ceremony, Nixon hailed this as a "realistic and enforceable... step forward in an area which has been of great public concern." But his noble words were intended for the voters, not the campaign contributors.

The catch is that the law doesn't take effect until April 7. To beat the deadline, the President's own campaign committee has been feverishly opening new accounts in Washington banks.

Under federal law, political contributors are bound by a $5,000 limit. But to prevent hardship at campaign time, the politicians wrote the law so it could be subverted easily.

A man rich enough and motivated enough to contribute $100,000 to a candidate need only to make out 20 checks for $5,000 each. They go to fund-raising organizations with different names but the same base, like pipes from a water main.

To hide the contributions, both parties set up phony financial fronts, usually in the District of Columbia, where there has been no legal requirement to identify the benefactors or their gifts.

All this will now change on April 7, so the President's campaign collectors have been rushing to set up bank accounts under the old law.

His campaign organization is known formally as the Committee for the Re election of the President. It is staffed by ex-White House aides and directed by ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, with ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans as the chief has passer.

Stans has already raised well over $1 million from the fat cats, who would prefer to be anonymous. The money has been funneled into dozens of new accounts, which have been hastily opened in the names of phony "citizens groups."

The phony fronts go by such names as "Loyal Americans for Good Government," "Better Society Committee," "Government Reform Committee, "Balanced Society Committee," "Effective Government Council," and "Good Government Committee."

Most of the accounts have been opened in the prestigious First National Bank of Washington only two blocks from the White House. From his second-floor quarters, President Nixon can almost watch through the bank's huge glass windows as Republican depositiors line up to lay the cash on the line for his reelection.

Not only the bank, but his campaign committee and his former law firm are located in the same building. The law firm has expanded, incidentally, from a one-lawyer to an eleven-lawyer operation since the distinguished former partner moved into the White House down the street.

But is isn't proximity alone which makes the First National a natural repository for the Nixon campaign accounts. The bank's able chairman, Bill Schuiling, is treasurer of the GOP Congressional Boosters Club. A senior vice president, Tudor Whiton, is treasurer of the Republican Senatorial Committee.

And the bank president, Charles Daniel, is a shrewd Republican financial adviser with a deceptive country-boy manner. He refused to comment on the multiple Republican deposits in his vaults.

"We try to protect our depositors." he told us cordially. "Any information concerning their accounts should come from them.

DEATH CAR

While Congress dawdles over a plan to establish independent auto diagnostic centers, thousands of motorists die each year because their states have corrupt, careless, or incompetent auto inspectors.

Nineteen states have none at all.

Even Pennsylvania, which has one of the best inspection systems in the land, does an inadequate job. Consider this bizarre case:

On October 7, Robert R. Pyles of York, Pa., sat in the 1962 Chevrolet he used on his night watchman's job. Because the night was chilly, he rolled up the windows. He slumped to sleep and never awakened.

Medical authorities ruled Pyles died of carbon monoxide poisoning. Yet the car had passed inspection less than two weeks earlier.

On November 10, John E. Rank, a 30-year-old neighbor of the dead man, drove the same 1962 Chevrolet into Maryland. With friends, he stopped for a few drinks at a tavern, grew drowsy and climbed into the car. To keep warm he ran the motor.

Rank's friends left the bar, saw him slumped in the seat and opened the door to turn off the ignition. They left him to "sleep it off." But next day, Rank was still in the car, dead.

The Maryland Medical Examiner's crack chief investigator, W.C. Masemore, quickly discovered that the car, for as long as a year, had a faulty exhaust pipe. The car also had rusted through in several spots, allowing the fumes to leak into the passenger compartment. Yet on the windshield was a Pennsylvania inspection sticker, still less than two months old.

Footnote: Transportation Secretary John Volpe could have cut off up to 10 percent of the highway building funds for states without inspection systems. He has failed to act, however, to avoid a political fuss. Senator Phil Hart, D-Mich., meanwhile has developed legislation to establish a pilot program of independent diagnostic centers to give motorists an honest estimate of what's wrong with their cars.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Big Pension Steal: Hoffa's Jet-flying Protege Caught Looting Teamsters' Billion-Dollar Old-Age Funds

NEW YORK -- Since millionaire, multi-homed Jimmy Hoffa again is warning the world to get out it is only fair to get to know him again -- especially by the company he keeps in blue chips. The Teamsters, after all, aren't the salt pretzel bakers. This is the world's largest union and Hoffa already has launched his campaign inside to convince its high command to reinstate him as president.

In recent weeks his Florida living room was much like a dentist's waiting room. Labor leaders waited their turn to see Jimmy. Word of his "comeback" was enough to bring them back in.

So to know the real Jimmy Hoffa, let's report on his most intimate friend, the 49-year-old insurance tycoon Allen Dorfman, also a millionaire, also with a lovely house for each season in California and Florida, Wisconsin and Chicago.

Dorfman made his millions as a protege of Hoffa's -- and on Feb. 29 was convicted here, virtually unnoticed, on one charge of conspiracy and five counts of wire fraud. Here you have the making of an international thriller. Virtually ever Federal agency has been trying to convict Dorfman for years. But it was 29-year-old, television-imaged, Assistant U.S. Attorney Rick Ben-Veniste, colleague of U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour, Jr., of the New York Southern District, who nailed him.

It took work, as thousands of pages of the trial testimony -- through which I've just gone -- reveal. It has all the ingredients of an international thriller -- an international Swiss banker slips in and out with a bog of cash; secret meetings are held in Hollywood, Fla.'s Hotel Diplomat where the mystery starts on March 27, 1967;

Dorfom begins pumping $55,000 as a kickback on a $1.5 million loan from the Chicago- based Teamsters Central States Southeast and Southwest Pension Fund ($1.4 billion in assets); and $80,000 -a -year Teamsters officials making decisions on million-dollar pension-fund loans.

Dorfman, who traveled handsomely and widely with Hoffa before the Lewisburg saga, got his power and glory from Jimmy. By the time Dorfman really got rolling he owned some 10 insurance companies. He had a virtual monopoly on vast portions of the Teamsters' multi-million dollar health and welfare insurance business. He has the agency which places it. And the company which covers it. Thus he makes the commission and the profit.

Dorfman rarely overlooked making an extra four bits. By grace of Hoffa, Dorfman, son of Chicago's late Red Dorfman, one of the toughest of that city's nether world, became "administrator, officer, custodian (no less), counsel, agent and employe"of the gargantuan fund. For this he was paid $60,000 annually.

At one point he bought a six-seat Lear Jet and rented it to the Teamsters Pension Fund at $30,000 a month. The fund paid the operating costs. Why it needed a jet no one really says. Nor do they reveal why they just didn't rent one on their own.

Just how he justified going into the plane renting business when he was president of the American Overseas Insurance Co. of Chicago, no one explains either. But a buck's a buck. And since he was a fund official he used the plane which they rented from him.

So Dorfman, chosen as a consultant just as Hoffa was heading for prison, waltzed the fund's millions around. There is Boca Tica, for example (so spelled "Tica" in the court transcripts). This isn't a song. It's a Florida country club-type development. It got a $5 million loan. Then another half-million dollars. All from the fund which Dorfman advised, and of which he was "custodian." Supposedly watching the money being put aside for the Teamsters in their old age.

Then it develops that Boca Tica belonged to something called World Wide Realty in which Dorfman held 25,000 shares. Dorfman pushed the loan through the fund's "Steering committee" dominated by Jimmy Hoffa friends such as the Teamsters Ninth National Vice Preisdent William Presser who was chairman of the committee.

There were several $1.5 million loans from the fund. One to a non-solvent Miami hotel. And there is something called "Cove Inn," of which Dorfman owned a third. It was dark, dormant, unused. Yet it too got a $1.5 million loan.

It is on a $1.5 million loan to a textile firm called Neisco Corp. that Dorfman got nailed. There was "relaxed supervision" of the money, its uses and the firm's assets. For pushing this loan through Dorfman got $55,000 in cash and conviction on six counts. But all this is peanuts. It took hard and dogged digging by young Ben-Veniste.

This is a new generation of prosecutors. They don't think Hoffa or his friends are tough. Hoffa wants a showdown with them. He'll get it from them.

Columnist Testifies

Rate Kleindienst Unfit For Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson told Senate investigators today that Richard G. Kleindienst is unfit to be attorney general because he is not a "man who understands the law and respects the truth."

Despite his disclaimers, acting Atty. Gen. Kleindienst played a major role in settlement of three antitrust suits against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., Anderson testified to the Judiciary Committee.

As a result of columns written by Anderson last week, the committee is taking new testimony relating to Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general.

"There has been a concerted effort to conceal the truth about ITT's settlement of its antitrust battle with the Justice Department," Anderson said in a statement prepared for the committee. This effort began before we published our first column on the subject and has continued without interruption ...

"The public record on this episode is blotted with falsehood. The aura of scandal hangs over the whole matter. It will not be dispelled merely by the self-serving disclaimers of present and former members of the (Nixon) administration and officials of ITT," Anderson said.

Anderson's columns, based on a memorandum attributed to ITT lobbyist Dita D. Beard, suggested that the Justice Department agreement to settle the suits against ITT was linked to the conglomerate's purported $400,000 commitment to the Republican National Convention.

Kleindienst has denied the suggestion and says the memo is false.

"There can be no doubt that Mr. Kleindienst played a major role in the settlement of the ITT antitrust cases," Anderson said. "He helped bring about a settlement experts have denounced as a sham. Having done this, he issued an utterly disingenuous statement about the matter indicating he had no role whatever ...

"This country needs as its top law-enforcement officer a man who understands the law and respects the truth," the columnist said. "Richard Kleindienst is not such a man. He is unfit to be attorney general."

Anderson contends the settlement was arranged mainly by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Mrs. Beard, who is yet to testify because she is hospitalized in Denver.

Mitchell, who resigned March 1 to run President Nixon's reelection campaign, was scheduled to testify after Anderson, according to chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Kleindienst, Richard McLaren, former head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, and Felix Rohatyn, an ITT director, completed more than 13 hours of testimony before the committee Wednesday.

Kleindienst repeated his denial that the White House was involved in the settlement.

He also denied participating in the settlement although he acknowledged meeting Rohatyn in his office to discuss the financial hardship ITT would suffer from divestiture of several companies.

Abortion Hearing Crowded

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Janitors were busy in the wee hours today cleaning up debris left by an overflowing crowd at Wednesday night's hearing on a bill to repeal Missouri's abortion law.

The emotion-packed delegations to support or oppose the measure were opinionated—and messy.

Custodians swept up crumpled "Right To Life" and "Repeal" stickers—silent reminders of identity tags worn by both side of the issue—along with soda cans, gum and candy wrappers and other litter left by the overflowing crowd. They had a deadline to restore the dignity of the House of Representatives' chambers before today's session opened.

House civil and criminal procedure committee chairman Harold L. Holliday, D-Kansas City, held a tight reen on the procedings that occasionally threatened to get out of hand. At one point in the testimony, Rep. Thomas Ryan, D-Kansas City, who opposed the bill, complained to Holliday of hecklers, but a rap of the gavel silenced that.

Rep. DeVerne Calloway, DSt. Louis, sponsor of the measure, said she has changed her mind about liberalizing abortion laws—a proposal she sponsored last year—in favor of repealing the law. She said under present law a doctor can be charged with manslaughter for performing an abortion.

"I have come to the conclusion," she said, "That the only way to resolve the controversy is to repeal the present law ... which would leave the matter strictly between a woman, her doctor and her God ... And that is as it should be ..."

She contends present law merely forces women to the back alley "quack."

Principal witness for Mrs. Calloway's proposal was a Colorado state representative who led the campaign to liberalize Colorado's law. He now favors repeal.

Colorado Rep. Richard D. Lamm, D-Denver, said the 1967 law "has done little or nothing to solve the public health epidemic called illegal abortion." He said it discriminates against the poor with legal red tape.

Fourteen individuals testified in support of the repeal representing the Missouri Council of Churches, the Teamsters Union, the legal and medical professions, women's liberation and the National Organization of Women, to name a few.

Opponents included the "right to life" group and a number of similar organizations, most of whom appeared at a hearing last month on a house bill which would make abortion illegal "from the moment of conception."

Rep. Earl Schlef, D-Dellwood, co-sponsor of the bill to tighten abortion laws, introduced a long line of opponents—many the same ones who appeared for his bill.

Wheat Seed Shipment Blamed For 1,000 Dying

BEIRUT (AP) — A shipment of wheat seed from Canada or the United States is blamed for an outbreak of mercury poisoning in Iraq that travelers say has taken as many as 1,000 lives.

But the travelers said the seeds, distributed for planting only, were packed in sacks plainly marked with skull and crossbones.

The reports received here tallied in many respects with one given in Stockholm Wednesday by a Swedish scientist. However, he said thousands had died from eating the seeds, which were treated with a mercury compound as protection against rats and other pests.

The travelers arriving in Beirut gave these details:

Peasant farmers ignored the poison warnings and fed the seed to cattle or ground them up as flour for themselves.

The entire meat market soon was contaminated, and the sale of local meat was banned.

With reports coming in of hundreds of cases of poisoning, the government ordered the seed to be handed back, and the death penalty was decreed for anyone caught selling it.

Frightened peasants dumped the seed in the Tigris River, and the sale of local fish also had to be banned.

As many as 1,000 people may have died, and several thousand others are suffering from brain damage, blindness and paralysis.

Several foreign women in Baghdad have had abortions, fearing that the poison may affect their unborn children.

Ann Landers

Dad Quits Drinking, Everybody's Happy

Dear Ann Landers: You've printed lots of letters from kids who are unhappy because their fathers drink. But I don't think you've ever printed a letter from a teen-ager whose father stopped drinking. Here's one.

For as long as I can remember my dad and mom had trouble because he never came home from work when he was supposed to. When he did come home he was plopped.

On weekends he'd get completely smashed. About a year ago mom told him to get some help and shape up or she was going to a divorce lawyer. She said it was absolutely his last chance. Well, that did it. My life is so different now I can barely believe it.

Dad is home after work every night at 6:15. Our whole family has dinner together. I just found out he is really smart. He can talk intelligently on many subjects. We never knew it because he never made any sense at night and in the morning he was too hung over to talk. I'm not afraid to invite company to the house anymore. I used to shudder when my friends came over because I never knew what shape dad would be in. When he was drinking his language wasn't the best.

Last summer we took our first real vacation. We're going to do it again in July. Life is so great when you have something to look forward to.

I wonder if men who drink realize what a difference their boozing makes to their families. Tell them, will you? --A Happy Kid

Dear Happy Kid: You told them --- and in a way that I never could. You don't say whether your dad went to A.A., a counselor or if he quit cold. The last approach might seem easiest but it's the most difficul'. It CAN be done, however. My congratulations to your dad and my thanks to you for a day-brightener.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for twelve years. We get along well together and have no problems we can't resolve before we turn out the light at night. Something is bothering me, however, and I don't want to mention it to Phil. It's his mother's frequent references to his hair. Phil is only 36 but his hair is salt and pepper. It doesn't bother me in the least, in fact, I like it. When we were married he was only 24 and had some gray in his hair even then.

My mother-in-law implies that I am the cause of her son's gray hair. For example, she'll say, "Phil, dear, your hair is turning so fast ---is your wife worrying you into old age?"

Although she does it in a kidding way it irks me. Does gray hair have anything to do with worry? What should I say? ---At A Loss For Words.

Dear Loss: Gray hair has nothing to do with worrying. It's an inherited characteristic. Chances are good that Phil is getting his gray hair from his mother, not you, dear. Wise him up so HE can tell her.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been reading your column since I was eight years old. I am 14 now and I want to pay you back for all the things I have learned. Here are some facts that I'll bet you don't know:

The fruit fly has 8 chromosomes. The pea plant has 14. Corn has 20. Lemons have 46. The crayfish has 200. In humans and all mammals the male chromosome pair is X and Y. The female pair is XX. In the bird world it is reversed. The male bird has two identical chromosomes whereas the hen has two different ones. Are you surprised?----Mobile, Ala.

Dear Mo: Am I surprised? Wow! I had no idea. Thanks for the fill in. If a crayfish writes in and asks how many chromosomes he has I'll be able to tell him.

World Day Of Prayer

Last Friday afternoon the Tanner Street Church of God was the scene of an impressive ecumenical gathering of Christians from 13 area churches. Over 65 men and women joined together to pray for peace. It was one of thousands such groups which met all over the world on that day.

The program opened with the hymn, "Open Now Thy Gates of Beauty" sung by the congregation accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Carl Schorle together with Mrs. Vernon Guttenfelder at the piano.

Mrs. Don Bohannon of Tanner Street Church of God led the prayers in the section "We offer Joyful Thanksgiving," assisted by Mrs. A. M. Jackson of Trinity Baptist Church and Mrs. Kendall Sikes of St. Paul Episcopal Church. Readings and prayers in the part "We recognize Joy and Suffering dwell side by side" were presented byMrs. Joe McCord from The First Christian Church and Mrs. Joel Montgomery of The First Presbyterian.

Mrs. Glenn Barks sang "Think on These Things" accompanied by Mrs. Guttenfelder. The Message given by Rev. Vernon Guttenfelder, combined the theme of the program, "All Joy Be Yours" with impressions gathered on his recent trip to Europe and the Holy Land.

Mrs. Bernice Butler from The Smith Chapel Methodist Church led the section "We pray with the women of the world" with Mrs. Allan Hubbard of The First United Methodist church and Mrs. Bill Hunter from St. Francis Xavier Parish serving as readers.

An offering was made to be sent to the Inter- Continental Mission which this year is concentrating on helping migrant workers, refugees and in rehabilitation of war- torn countries.

The Prayer of Dedication was said by Mrs. Roberta Rowe, Cochairman of the planning committee. She served with Mrs. W. S. Corrigan. They worked under the direction of Mrs. L. O. Whitworth, President of Church Women United in Sikeston.

MU Accepts NIT Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana, Missouri and Lafayette said yes, but Ohio State said no.

The Buckeyes turned down an invitation to the National Invitation basketball Tournament Wednesday after the other three teams had accepted.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor said only that he had taken a vote of his players, and that it was negative. The Buckeyes currently are second in the Big Ten race while Indiana is fourth.

The addition of the three teams Wednesday brought the field to 11 and left five open berths in the 35-year-old postseason tournament, which starts March 17 at Madison Square Garden.

A few of the spots no doubt will be saved for teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference, which now is holding a playoff, and for the winner of the Missouri Valley Conference playoff game between Louisville and Memphis State Saturday.

Indiana and Missouri will be making their first appearances in the nation's oldest postseason tournament. Lafayette will be in for the third time.

Indiana has a 16-7 record and winds up the regular season Saturday against Purdue.

Missouri, the Big Eight runnerup, has a 20-5 record with a game remaining against Oklahoma Saturday night. Coach Norm Stewart's club is led by 6-7 John Brown.

Lafayette, a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference, last attended the NIT in 1956. In their first year under Coach Tom Davis, the Leopards won 20 of 25 games.

Missouri Signs Six

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri announced Wednesday the signing of six Kansas City area high school football players to Big Eight letters-of-intent.

Coach Al Onofrio noted four of the six had won all-state honors.

Those signed included: Chris Cummings, Rockhurst, and Ray Miller, West Platte of Weston, both quarterbacks; Roland (Butch) Allen, split end and defensive back from Harrisonville; Jerry Williams, defensive back and split end from Raytown South, Tom Hulsey, fullback and linebacker from Kansas City Southwest, and Brian Meyers, center and defensive tackle from Rockhurst.

Cummings, Meyers, Allen and Hulsey were all-state selections. Williams was all-conference, all-district and all-metro at Raytown South, and Miller was all-clnference at Weston.

SEMO State Signs Morrow

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Although a good bit of basketball is still being played, the Southeast Missouri State College season is past history and Coach Bob Cradic is looking to next year.

He signed his first recruit this week, Mike Morrow, a 6-2 guard who averaged 26 points and 17 rebounds a game this season in leading his team to its best record in history.

Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morrow of Diehlstadt, played at Kelly High School near Benton and was named to all-conference and all-district teams.

"Mike is an exceptionally hard worker and a great competitor," praised Coach Cradic. "He has outstanding quickness, and we think he will make an outstanding college guard."

Mike Morrow

Cradic added that Morrow can jump 10 feet, 8 inches, "higher than any of our guards can reach."

In averaging 26 points a game this season, Morrow hit 50 per cent of his field goal attempts and 72 per cent of his free throw tries. His single game high was 38 points against Advance.

His best rebounding performance also came against Advance when he grabbed 29 shots off the boards.

Kelly High finished the season with a 19-8 record.

Besides basketball, Morrow is also a baseball player. Although listed as a pitcher, he had a .400 batting average last season.

Track Season Opens

Sprinter Curtis Bean and hurdler Jeff Fansler lead a contingent of Sikeston thin clads into their first indoor track meet of the season Friday night when the Bulldogs host 11 schools in the third annual Indoor invitational at SHS field house.

Coach Jim Graham noted that the team is young and inexperienced and will be facing a stiff test in their season opener.

Participants will be Cape Central, Charleston, Poplar Bluff, Jackson, Perryville, Dexter, Kennett, East Prairie, Caruthersville and Chaffee.

Field events get started at 6 p.m. in the spacious domed indoor field house. Preliminaries for the running events start at 7 p.m. with finals set to get underway at 7:30.

SHS will host class L, M and S schools next week for indoor qualifications for the state event at Columbia March 24. A total of 15 schools are expected next Friday.

Sports Briefs

Last season the New York Knicks won 32 of their 41 regular season home games in Madison Square Garden.

Majestic Prince, 1969 Kentucky Derby winner, was sold by Spendthrift Farm to Frank McMahon for $250,000 at the 1967 Keeneland yearling sales.

Greg Fillmore, at 7-1, is the tallest basketball player in the history of the New York Knicks.

Miami's annual International Boat Show, which drew 279,000 visitors last winter, will be held next Feb. 18-23 in Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Ray Federici of Paterson, N.J., will captain Army's 1972 tennis team.

Cape Central Eliminated

ST. LOUIS — Sharp shooting Sumner high school used a deadly out-side scoring attack and a 10 point fourth quarter scoring spree by Richard Yates to move into the semifinals of the Missouri Class L high school basketball tournament Wednesday night and eliminate Cape Girardeau Central, 69-61.

The 1969 state champs shot their way out of a 37-34 halftime deficit with an unbelieveable 66 per cent shooting mark the second half. Coach Ron Coleman's Bulldogs took a 23-12 third quarter advantage and never trailed and build up as much as 13 point advantage in the fourth period.

Cape Central started very cold in its shooting, missing eight five foot shots in the first half before settling down to move into the halftime advantage. But the Bengals started the second half in the same manner as they did the game and before the eight minute period was over the Tigers were well on their way out of the sate tournament and headed for their fourth defeat in 28 games this season.

Randy Carter came off the Central bench to score 19 points and lead the Tigers second quarter spurtand wind up as the Bengals high point man on the night. Dick Buxton placed second with 18 points.

Pierre Blake had 23 points to pace all scorers on the night and led the Bulldogs to their 18th win in 27 games.

Stewart Comments

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Coach Norm Stewart said Wednesday his club's entry in the National Invitational Tournament was "very good tonic" for not winning the Big Eight Conference basketball championship.

Missouri lost its title bid Tuesday night with a 79-76 loss to Kansas State. The victory gave the Wildcats the league crown.

Missouri's record is now 20-5 with a game remaining Saturday against Oklahoma. The Tigers will be making their first appearance in the NIT, set for March 17-25.

Stewart said he was not surprised his 18-th-ranked Tigers were selected for the 16-team NIT field prior to their final game.

But, he said, the club was still disappointed at failure to win the Big Eight crown and a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs.

"They (the players) had set their goal to win the conference and you don't just shrug it off and say, 'Well, we didn't get it.' But now the team gets another opportunity to play in a nationally-recognized tournament and we're very happy."

KC Fans Riot

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — A referee's decision erupted into a chair-throwing riot Wednesday night as Raytown South defeated Kansas City Central in a Missouri High School Class L basketball quarterfinal at Maryville, 52-50, in overtime.

At least 13 persons in the near capacity crowd of 3,000 were treated for injuries at St. Francis Hospital here, although none was admitted. One witness, Rodney Couts of the Maryville Daily Forum, estimated another 75 to 100 suffered various degrees of minor injuries.

Referee Larry Zirbel called goal tending on Central's Ed Benton, and chalked up two points for Raytown's Ed Stoll. It was the winning margin, coming with two seconds left in overtime. A crowd of Central fans poured onto the floor and were finally coaxed off, only to come roaring back when a desperation shot by Central failed and the final gun sounded.

The fans charged Raytown players, coaches and fans, and began flinging folding chairs into the crowd. Couts said he saw several persons knocked out by flying chairs.

He said players, coaches and officials appeared to do everything possible to stem the violence. One Central player was seen pulling a Raytown player out from a cluster of irate Central fans.

It was more than 45 minutes before 30 officers, including Maryville police, highway patrolmen and campus police, could restore some semblance of order.

It's St. Louis Sumner vs. Raytown South and Kirkwood vs. Carthage Friday night in the semi-finals of the Missouri Class L basketball season at Columbia.

The St. Louis school swept by Cape Central 69-61 Wednesday night to enter the semifinal action.

At Warrensburg, Carthage defeated Columbia Hickman in another squeaker, 61-57.

Kirkwood came from behind to beat Northwest in a 68-66 game played at Kiel Auditorium. Kirkwood reserve guard Jeff Markle scored the winning basket on a long pass with four seconds to go. He was injured on the play and there was a question as to his availability Friday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kangaroos are big business in Australia.

About 1 1/2 million are killed yearly in a $23 million plus market, reports the National Geographic Society.

The 'roos are turned into cans of pet food, athletic shoes and high-fashion boots. Their fur covers toy koala bears and hat bands. Kangaroo tail soup delights gourmets.

Sheepmen in Australia insist kangaroos compete with sheep for the sparse bush and grass.

Despite the killing, kangaroos are prolific breeders.

National Hunting, Fishing Day Set

GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES signs a proclamation designating Sept. 23, 1972 as Hunting and Fishing Day in Missouri. At center is Ed Stegner, executive secretary of the Conservation Federation, largest citizen conservation group in the state. At right is Carl Noren, director of the Missouri Department of Conservation.

JEFFERSON CITY -- Nearly 25 percent of Missouri's citizens buy a hunting or fishing permit -- some 1,290,059 of them in 1970, the latest year for which all the figures are in.

That is nearly as many as the 1,809,502 people who voted in Missouri in the 1968 Presidential election. It is nearly as many people as the whole state had 80 years ago (1,662,556). It is more than 2½ times as many people as Missouri had a hundred years ago.

To honor these hunters and fishermen Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has signed a proclamation officially recognizing National Hunting and Fishing Day Sept. 23, 1972.

The first such day was in 1971 and 23 states honored their hunting and fishing outdoorsmen. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre of New Hampshire and Rep. Robert Sikes of Florida introduced identical resolutinns in the United States Congress asking the President to declare the fourth Saturday of each September as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

Sen. McIntyre's resolution is co- sponsored by 32 senators and Rep. Sikes' resolution has 13 identical resolutions from other representatives.

The day not only would honor hunters and fishermen, but also the idea of conservation -- since the leading supporters of the conservation movement in the nation have been the outdoor sportsmen, both with money and philosophical support.

The objective of the 1972 Hunting and Fishing Day will be to have every hunting, fishing and conservation club in America hold an open house to introduce the public to outdoor skills.

Missouri's largest such organization is the Conservation Federation which is the spokesman for conservation in legislative matters, as well as in daily life. The Federation has about 22,000 members over the state.

Information for clubs on how to have their open house is in a booklet available for a dollar from NHF Day, 1075 Post Road, Riverside, Conn. 06878.

As part of such open houses, clubs will offer visitors a chance to shoot arrows at archery targets or shotguns at clay birds or take part in a fishing clinic.

Gov. Hearnes proclamation for Missouri reads as follows:

WHEREAS: The value of an hour in the woods at sunrise or the ripple of a fishing plug on quiet waters cannot be measured by economic terms, but only by priceless tranquility; AND,

WHEREAS: Hunting and fishing occupy the leisure hours of at least one- quarter of Missouri's citizens; AND,

WHEREAS: America is a hunting and fishing nation traditionally, from the first Thanksgiving dinner gathered by Pilgrim forefathers from the land; AND,

WHEREAS: Leading conservationists and naturalists of American history, such as John James Audubon and Theodore Roosevelt, also have been hunters and fishermen; AND,

WHEREAS: The nation's hunters and fishermen, have financed the return and maintenance of many species of wildlife to our lands and waters, NOW,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the fourth Saturday of September each year, and September 23 in 1972 be declared HUNTING AND FISHING DAY IN MISSOURI, with appropriate recognition of the very real contributions made by the state's sportsmen toward preservation of resources that benefit all Missourians.

New State Forest

DONIPHAN — The Department of Conservation has bought a 2,322- acre area eight miles north of Doniphan in Ripley County off Higheay 21 which will be known as the Little Black State Forest.

The tract was bought from Sherman Spurlock, originally from the Doniphan area, who now lives in Georgia. Most of the land is forested and the south fork of the Little Black River crosses it.

The area will have a complete management plan worked out, including wildlife and fisheries, as well as forestry.

Archery Ranks Swell

JEFFERSON CITY -- The bowtwanging ranks swelled again in 1971 with the addition of nearly 1,000 archery deer hunters.

There were 17,840 archery tags bought in 1971, compared to 16,950 in 1970. Archers took 962 deer during the three- month 1971 season, an all-time high.

The season for several years has begun Oct. 1 and run through the end of the year.

Schoendienst Names Pitchers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals are getting ready for their first exhibition game here Saturday against the New York Mets.

Manager Red Schoendienst said he intends to use as pitchers the newly-acquired Rick Wise, Jim Maloney and Dennis Higgins.

In an intrasquad game Wednesday righthander Al Santorini and rookie outfielder Jorge Roque were standouts as the Vern Benson team beat the Ken Boyers, 11-5.

Santorini, 23, who has not won a major league game in nearly two seasons, pitched three scoreless innings for the Bensons. Roque pounded out three hits.

Reporting to the training camp Wednesday were catcher Ted Simmons and outfielderfirst baseman Bob Burda. Both were called to camp under baseball's renewal clause although they have not agreed to salary terms.

Still missing from camp is salary holdout Joe Torre, third baseman who has not been given orders to report. Pitcher Jerry Reuss was said to be enroute from St. Louis.

Reserve Clause Used Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Management took the play away from the players in baseball Wednesday.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, invoked the controversial reserve clause on holdout pitcher Vida Blue.

Bing Devine, the general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, drew attention by not doing the same to Joe Torre.

And the American League considered the possible sale of the Cleveland Indians.

Finley announced that he would use the reserve clause in an attempt to settle contract problems with Blue, last year's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young winner in the American League.

The owner sent a "letter of renewal" and 1972 contract for $50,000 to the 22-year-old lefthander.

Blue, who made $14,500 last year and has been asking $92,000, responded to Finley's act through his attorney, Robert Gerst.

"Blue won't sign the contract," said Gerst. "Vida's willing to play this year for $50,000—so long as he does not have to sign a contract and is a free agent at the end of the year."

The reserve clause, under attack in the Curt Flood suit filed in 1969, binds a player to a team for one year after his contract expires. The club is required to pay the athlete at least 80 per cent of his prior year's salary.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., Devine's inaction to pull the same reserve clause on Torre raised eyebrows.

The Cardinal general manager had invoked the clause against holdouts Ted Simmons, a catcher, pitcher Jerry Reuss and first baseman Bob Burda earlier in the week.

There was no immediate explanation from management on why Devine neglected to send Torre a letter of renewal.

Torre, last year's Most Valuable Player in the National League, made about $100,000 last season and is holding out for $50,000 more. The All-Star third baseman is the only Cardinal absentee from camp.

Another major off-the-field matter involved Nick Mileti, who hopes to buy the Indians from Vernon Stouffer.

Representatives of the 12 American League clubs met for seven hours in Sarasota, Fla., but postponed until March 22 a decision on the proposed $9 million sale.

Mileti, owner of the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association and the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, heads a group of five Cleveland businessmen who wish to keep the Indians' franchise in the city.

In Wednesday's exhibition games, the San Francisco Giants reached Chicago Cubs' ace Ferguson Jenkins for five runs in the first two innings and went on to a 10-8 triumph; Jay Johnstone hit a grand slam home run in the 14th inning, helping the Chicago White Sox beat the Boston Red Sox 11-7; Minnesota ripped into Steve Blass for three runs in both the second and third innings for a 7-3 triumph over Pittsburgh; Texas got four runs in the first two innings off New York starter Fritz Peterson and beat the Yankees 6-2 and Dave Schneck singled home the winning run in the 12th inning as the New York Mets edged the Detroit Tigers 4-3.

Unexpected Need To Force Natural Gas Prices Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness says the unexpected heavy demand for low-cost natural gas will force prices up, causing rationing and more imports.

George Lincoln told the Senate Interior Committee Thursday the low prices have caused a run on the supplies which would not have occurred if the natural gas had been priced "as high as oil and coal."

"You're saying that Congress may have to provide legislation to set (energy-use) priorities," asked Sen. Mike Gravel, DAlaska.

What's The Law

Trust Draws Dust

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Susan decided to ship off on the Sea of Matrimony, at the age of 19, she also decided that she needed some loot to insure the success of the venture. Consequently, she filed a petition in court for permission to withdraw five grand from a trust account that was being held for her benefit until she reached the vererable age of 21.

"While being in love is O.K.," she told the judge, "without money, a marriage doesn't stand a chance. And, with the $5,000 I want, I can toss a wing-ding of a wedding and make a bundle. Because for every $5 per person spent, I'll get back at least $20 per person in wedding presents. I'd have a nest egg and be able to furnish a lovely home to boot. "Obviously," she concluded, "spending the money on the wedding would be a far better investment than letting the five thousand bucks continue to rot in a bank account for another two years at a crummy low rate of interest."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the financially astute bride to withdraw the $5,000 for her wedding?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! While permitting a partial withdrawal, the judge held that there was no reason to believe that the permanency of a marriage bears any relationship to the amount spent on the wedding. Nor should gifts, although substantial and of benefit to the bride, be viewed as a "quid pro quo" exchange for permitting guests to come to the wedding. Furthermore, concluded the judge, wedding presents are at best a haphazard way of obtaining home furnishings. (Based upon a 1964 New York Surrogate's Court Decision)

Life Sentence Term Upheld

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court today upheld the conviction and life sentence of Joseph Arthur Boyer J4. for shooting Larry James Smith Sept. 17, 1969 during the robbery of a filling station near Pevely, Mo.

In other murder cases the court:

Agreed with the St. Louis Circuit Court that Robert Lee Johnson was properly convicted and sentenced to life for killing Sam Travis, owner of Travis Coffectionary at Webster and Thomas street in St. Louis May 23, 1968.

Found that Abraham W. Skaggs had no grounds to appeal a life sentence for killing a young girl while sexually molesting her. He was convicted Nov. 2, 1960 but the appeal was not filed until more than nine years later.

Gave Mrs. Virginia C. Randall a new trial because her self defense plea was not properly presented to the jury.

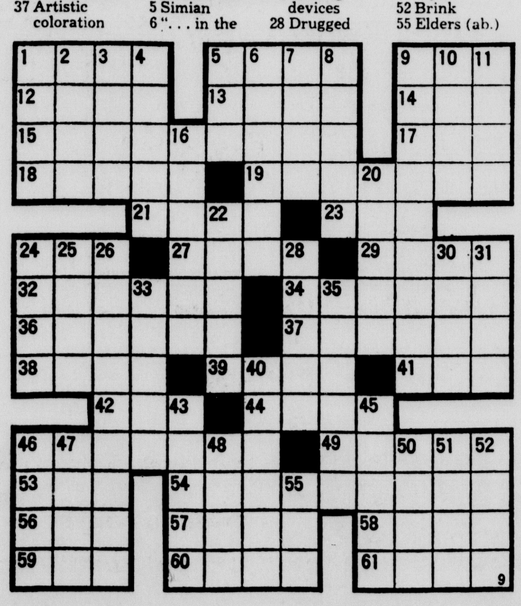
Answer to Previous Puzzle



℞ FOR TODAY

from David Shy Rph.

Why do humans crave alcohol? Now Dr. Robert S. Pogrund has come up with a new idea – smog. He recently exposed 10 rats to air with smog content and offered them a free choice of 4 liquids – plain water, a sugar solution, a saccharin solution and alcohol. Initially, 20 rats preferred water. After 3 weeks the 10 smog breathing rats turned to alcohol. Does smog trigger a similar reaction in humans? No one knows for sure.

Steele Voters Approve Bonds

STEELE (Special) — Steele voters overwhelmingly approved bond issues totaling almost half- a- million dollars yesterday for improvements projects which will benefit the proposed maximum security prison site.

Although more than 500 voters turned out for the city election, only 73 negative votes were cast. The propositions will raise the city tax rate 49 cents and result in an average 25 per cent increase in water and sewer rates.

The unofficial vote tally on the propositions were as follows:

Proposition One, issuing general obligation bonds in the mount of $75,000 for the purpose of constructing a road on the city- owned airport and industrial park-prison site: 458 for, 73 against.

Proposition Three, issuing combined waterworks and sewerage system revenue bonds in the amount of $325,000 to extend and improve the combined water and sewer systems: 476 for, 54 against.

City officials who have worked to obtain the prison location in Steele called yesterday's victory at the polls a "definite vote of confidence" on behalf of the city's residents.

Fire Damages T.G.& Y. Store

A fire at Kingsway Plaza Mall early this morning caused minor damage to the T G & Y Family Store, according to the city fire department.

The fire apparently began in electrical wires in the Southeast corner of the store near the greeting cards section.

The fire department said there was considerable smoke damage and some water damage done to the store, but no damage was done to other stores in the mall.

A grass fire at the home of the late Rev. Joseph Wagner, 1015 N. Kingshighway, burned out a grill on a 1971 Ford parked behind the house. Firemen said the fire, which began about 4:40 p.m., was by burning trash.

At 4:55 p.m. a burning trash pile spread to a shed at 229 Dixie. There was only minor damage according to the fire department.

At 4:40 p.m. firemen were called to a grass fire in a vacant lot in the 200 block of Trotter, apparently started by burning trash, firemen said.

Clean Up Boarding Homes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A firm policy statement by the state Board of Health Wednesday calls for legislation to clean up the socalled "bootleg boarding home" situation in Missouri.

The board called legislation to put boarding homes under Division of Health control "an urgent need" for senior citizens. It also endorsed a Housepassed bill sponsored by Rep. Charles Dickey, D-Mexico, which would require boarding homes to be licensed and regulated like nursing homes. That proposal is waiting Senate committee action.

Dr. Herbert Domke, acting director of the Division of Health, said the board also states it will back other legislation to accomplish what it considered three objectives necessary to protect elderly nursing home patients. They are:

Identification and licensing of a boarding home as one providing adequate and safe care for "those who are able to care for themselves."

Lions Hear About Anapolis

Admission to a service academy is not as difficult as sometimes thought, the Sikeston Lions Club learned Wednesday, from a presentation by C. L. Blanton, III, publisher of The Daily Standard.

A commander in the Naval Reserve and recruiter for the Naval Academy at Anapolis, Blanton said academies provide the finest education available. He also explained how the academies examine applicants' college board scores, English and math test scores, ranking in class and extra curricular activities prior to accepting the student.

Of the 7,297 applicants to Annapolis last year, only 2,410 qualified for admission, he said. Of that number 1,600 were offered admission and 1,332 actually started school.

Offered FBI Training

Bennie Rapert, Cpl. Mo. State Highway Patrol, Charleston, Mo., has been extended an invitation by Mr. J.Edgar Hoover, Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, to attend the 89th Session of the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy beginning March 20, 1972, at Washington, D.C.

This will be an intensive twelve week training program for law enforcement officers at the Federal Bureau of Investigation facilities in Washington, D.C. and the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy at Quantico, Virginia. The Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy was established thirty-six years ago and has had 5,934 graduates since its beginning. PATROLMAN Ray Merrick (left) surveys the damage while Patrolman Jesse Redd directs traffic at the scene of an accident that occurred about 8 a.m. at the corner of Malone and West Streets.

Three Vehicle Accident

Police said that the pickup truck driven east on Malone by James William Coke, route four, struck a car driven by Jack Lavell Cothern, 844 Agnes.

According to police a dump truck driven by Sylvester Murphy, 227 Luther St., pulled out of the intersection and into the path of Coke. Coke swerved to miss him and struck the Cothern auto which was stopped at a stop sign on S. West. The impact knocked the Cothern car into the dump truck.

Murphy said his view of the road was blocked by a truck parked on his right and he did not see the Coke car.

House Passes ADC-U Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House of Representatives passed a bill Wednesday that would reinstate Aid to Depdendent Children in homes where unemployed fathers are present.

The law to provide ADC in such homes expired last Dec. 31. If the new bill is enacted into law it would expire Dec. 31, 1975.

Last December some 750 families were getting ADC benefits even though an unemployed father was present in each one.

Also passed and sent to the Senate was a bill authorizing Platte and Clay county voters to decide whether they want their circuit and probate judges to come under the nonpartisan court plan.

The plan, now covering judges in St. Louis city and St. Louis and Jackson counties, provides that a judge runs only on his record and not against an opponent.

The House sent 21 bills to the Senate, mostly without argument.

Among them were bills to:

Increase membership on county welfare commissions from four to six and require that two of them be welfare recipients.

Set a minimum wage of $1.60 an hour on the measure's effective date, $1.80 a year later and $2 in two years.

Permit the use of passenger buses that are 102 inches wide on designated Missouri highways. Now the maximum is 96 inches.

Provide that law enforcement officers may get search warrants to search for hard evidence of crime, such as a weapon or a bloody shirt.

Permit the expunging of arrest records when the person is not charged and there is no indictment or information brought against him.

Repeal the old law that limits the work of employed women to nine hours a day or 54 hours a week.

Two New Patrolmen

W. Raymert Miller, city manager, has announced the appointment of two patrolmen to the Sikeston Police Department.

They are John A. Blankenbeker of 808 Mary St. and Bob A. Davis of 144 Bynum.

Blankenbeker, 21, was born in Cape Girardeau. He came to Sikeston two years ago from Houston, Texas, where he attended schools.

Both men are married.

Their appointments are effective today.

Seier of Cape Girardeau. Panel moderator will be Alex Cooper, program director for Delmo Housing Corporation of Lilbourn

Advance registration and dinner reservations may be made until Monday, March 20 by contacting Mrs. Cathleen Gipson at the County Welfare Office. Cost of the dinner is $3.75 per person.

School Busing

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, plans to stage his fight Monday in the Missouri Senate against compulsory busing of school children in order to achieve racial balance in schools.

Blackwell surprised the state legislature Monday when he introduced a resolution calling on the General Assembly to memorialize Congress to call a constitutional convention to overturn the U.S. Supreme Court ruling supporting busing.

The Senate Committee on Resolutions responded quickly Wednesday by approving the resolution, 4-0, sending it to the floor for debate.

"When this thing gets going," Blackwell said, "there'll be a lot more. The people are fed up with busing, and we're going to stop it."

Blackwell noted that state legislatures in Michigan, Georgia and Florida have passed similar resolutions. Two-thirds of the states would have to act before the Congress could call a constitutional convention to legally bar busing.

Blackwell expressed confidence Wednesday evening that both houses of the General Assembly would back the proposal.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louisl opposed the resolution before the Senate committee Wednesday, contending it would "set the clock back 100 years on integration."

Howard said the ramifications of the Blackwell resolution go far beyond the issue of busing.

Blackwell countered by accusing Howard of inserting racial considerations into every available issue before the legislature.

Federal And County Juries Indict Irving

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal and county grand juries indicted author Clifford Irving and his wife today on conspiracy and other charges in connection with Irving's disputed autobiography of Howard Hughes.

The federal grand jury charged the Irvings with conspiracy and mail fraud.

The county grand jury charged the Irvings and the author's researcher, Richard Suskind, with conspiracy, grand larceny and possession of forged instruments.

A separate county indictment charged Irving, 41, and Suskind, 38, with perjury in the second degree. Suskind was named as a co-conspirator, but not a defendant, in the federal indictment.

The county grand jury accused the three in a 25-count indictment of grand larceny in the second degree, which covers larceny where extortion is not involved, and with conspiracy in the third degree.

Irving was released on a personal recognizance bond of $100,000.

Irving and his wife arrived at the U.S. District Courthouse at about 11:15 a.m. and went to the third-floor office of U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour Jr., declining comment on the county indictments.

The grand jury investigations began six weeks ago.

At the outset, Irving and his 36-year-old wife took the Fifth Amendment and declined to discuss the circumstances surrounding preparation of the manuscript.

But last week, after authorities met at length with attorneys for the Irvings in numerous sessions, the couple agreed to testify. Each appeared before both grand juries for about 90 minutes.

The controversey began with the announcement last Dec. 7 that McGraw-Hill Inc. would publish an "autobiography" of Hughes, the billionaire recluse. Life magazine said at the same time it would run excerpts from the book.

Rosemont Enterprises, a Nevada Corporation associated with Hughes, immediately denied the authenticity of the still unpublished volume. And a little-known novelist whose most successful book was "Fake!" suddenly became the focus of world attention.

Irving swore in an affidavit Jan. 18 that Hughes gave him permission to compile the autobiography, that he had interviewed the wealthy industrialist for more than 100 hours and that he had passed on to Hughes $650,000 intended by McGraw-Hill as payment for rights to the eccentric billionaire's life story.

Osborn Associates, the prestigious handwriting analysis firm, examined documents Irving said Hughes wrote or signed and came "overwhelmingly" to the conclusion that they were authentic.

Delivery Attempt

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines officials were reported today to be negotiating with extortionists who planted bombs on two jetliners and demanded $2 million ransom. Police said one unsuccessful ransom delivery attempt had been made.

Extraordinary security precautions were in effect on TWA and other airlines after a sophisticated bomb exploded in the cockpit of an unoccupied TWA jet in Las Vegas Wednesday. A bomb was defused in the cockpit of a plane at Kennedy airport Tuesday.

A TWA spokesman would not comment on a report in the New York Daily News that negotiations were under way. Earlier the company refused to say "whether, or under what cricumstances, it would agree to pay ransom."

Despite the company denials, New York police said a private jet that landed mysteriously at Atlanta Tuesday night carried the $2 million the plotters demanded but that "no actual turnover was made."

TWA Chairman Charles C. Tillinghast Jr. refused to discuss the case with newsmen at a dinner Wednesday night. "It would only prejudice our position to say what we know or what we are doing," he said.

Investigators continued to work on the theory that the bombs were planted by one or more persons who were present or former airlines industry employes because of their obvious intimate knowledge of airline operations.

Commenting on the Las Vegas blast, a TWA spokesman said, "Whoever put it on the airplane has to know his way around the industry. He would have to know a considerable amount about the aircraft."

Charles Wyre, TWA general manager in Las Vegas, said the plane had been searched in New York after the bomb was found aboard the first plane Tuesday, and searched again after it arrived in Las Vegas.

One-Car Accident

Wilma Joseph Bonner, 54, of Sikeston was taken to Missouri Delta community Hospital with a severe cut on the head following a one-car accident at 1 a.m. today two miles west of Sikeston.

According to the Highway Patrol, Bonner's car went off a bridge and down a ditch. No reason was given for the accident.

Accident Injures 4

EAST PRAIRIE — An accident at 4:50 p.m. Wednesday on Imogene Street sent four persons to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston where they were treated and released.

James David Scruggs, 23, East Prairie, driving a 1967 pickup north on Imogene, struck a parked 1967 Ford owned by Herman E. Burns, 66, route two in the right rear. Extensive damage was done to the left front of the pickup and the Burns vehicle was damaged in the right rear.

Passengers in the Scruggs vehicle were his wife Brenda, 22, and their two children.

Chamber Speaker

Winthrop Rockefeller

CHARLESTON — Speaker at tonight's annual Chamber of Commerce dinner will be former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas. Industrial development for Charleston will be the topic of his address.

The banquet will be held in the high school student commons, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Chamber president Dr. Lowell Nicholas said a few tickets will be available at the door.

Rockefeller was inaugurated Arkansas's first republican governor in 94 years in Jan. 1967, and served two two-year terms. He has served as the state's Republican National Committeeman since 1961 and has led the efforts which brought about a two-party system in Arkansas.

Prior to becoming governor, he served eight years as chairman of the Arkansas Industiral Development Commission. During those years, from 1955 to 1963, Arkansas attracted 600 new or expanded industries, creating 90,000 new or upgraded job opportunities.

Tractor Mishap Injures Man

J.C. PHILLIPS, 49, of Three Beaird Dr., Sikeston, is in fair condition today at Missouri Delta Community Hospital following an accident yesterday in which his tractor overturned and pinned him to the ground.

According to police, Phillips was driving his tractor in the parking lot of the Homestead Distributing Co. on West Malone, about noon, when a wheel caught on a light pole and flipped the tractor over.

A forklift and jacks were needed to lift the tractor off Phillips. He received head and shoulder injuries.

AMERICANS AGAINST AMERICA

In our free society we have many learned people who believe the United States can do no right, while our enemies can do no wrong. Among these are a few senators, baby doctors, television commentators, and academicians. They demanded that we stop the bombing of North Vietnam unilaterally. We did in 1968. They demanded that we start withdrawing unilaterally from South Vietnam. We have withdrawn three-quarters of our men. They demand we treat Communist POW's in South Vietnam better, but say nothing of the Communist treatment of our POW's.

These friends of Hanoi and Peking demanded that we get Red China into the United Nations. We did so, unfortunately at the same time having to accept the expulsion of the Republic of China, a founding member and "permanent" member of the UN Security Council.

Now, in connection with President Nixon's visit to Red China, they have unearthed ex-State Department "experts" who told us in 1944 and 1945 that Mao TsTung was an agrarian reformer and even an "agrarian democrat" (whatever that is). These "experts" are now appearing on television and lecture halls to advise us that this is our great opportunity to make amends (for "McCarthyism") by recognizing Red China, and handing over Quemoy, Matsu and Taiwan itself. These characters have been demanding elections on Taiwan, but never speak of elections on the mainland, just as they favor elections in SouthVietnam, but not North Vietnam.

The record speaks for itself. Our concessions to the other side have not brought peace — only more aggression, more demands. Mao Tse-Tung, Ho Chi Minh and his successors, and Kim Il-sung are cut out of the same cloth. They regard our concessions as weakness. They count on the anti-Americans in the United States to prevail. Meantime they continue to repress their own people and to threaten their neighbors.

It is time for all Americans to stand up and be counted — for or against tyranny — wherever it may lie. Whether it be collective security in western Europe, the Middle East, the Caribbean or East Asia, the world is, unfortunately, still beset with aggressors. The right of self-defense is elementary. Just as we defend our own families and homes, we must stand with our friends and allies. Let them undertake more of their own defense, to be sure, but we will not abandon them.

FROM BLEAKNESS, A VOICE OF SPRING

The sound preceded them — the ancient, wild cry, full of the ache of seasons lost and the promise of those to come, falling down across the gray March morning from that distant region between hearing and remembering. The men, resting by their stack of cut wood at the field's edge, looked up.

At first they searched too low, just over the far treeline, as one always will. Then they raised their eyes straight up. And there, against the cold roof of sky, they found the geese — a hundred or more, not in the tidy V's of smaller flocks but in great shifting, unruly strings, hung nearly motionless on the wind, drawn by some fierce common memory to who knows what evening resting place.

The first pale wash of green in the woods behind was still a month or more away. The wood-cutters chilled inside their coats as they cooled from their work, and the calendar told them it would be more than a fortnight yet to spring.

Yet, in their minds, that high, clamorous passage — beyond seeing, now, but remaining in the ear — had rolled back the interval of bleakness and opened the way for warmth. Irrational, perhaps. Until you consider that there were men to mark the season's turn, and wild flocks to announce it, before there were calendars to prove their error.

WORDS WITH AN IMMORTAL ECHO

Abraham Lincoln's address at dedication of National Cemetery at Gettysburg, November 19, 1863:

"Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nations, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place of those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

DOWNFALL OF CHIVALRY

The late Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen once arrived a little late to address a women's group. He set things right with his opening sentence: "Girls, I'm a little breathless this morning -- who wouldn't be with all this loveliness and all this grace." Such a line definitely would not do in 1972.

In fact, Richard Reeves reports in New York magazine (Feb. 14, 1972) that President Nixon has a stack of memos on how to talk to and about women in the upcoming political campaign. One of them reads: "Don't use the pejorative compliment, 'I was noticing how beautiful the women look here tonight.' Do approach women as citizens." And a politician who dared refer to any female over the age of 16 as a "girl" would risk a lecture from Germaine Greer.

The woman thing seems to call for a whole different set of responses among politicians and ordinary citizens alike. For example, David Satter speculates in the Los Angeles Times (Jan. 30, 1972) about what might happen abroad the Titanic in 1972. Children would continue to get first place on the lifeboats, but women would consider preferential treatment mere condenscension. In the ensuing rush for the available places, it would be survival of the physically strongest.

Repealing chivalry is especially traumatic for gentlemen of the old school. To take off a hat in an elevator with a women's lib type is to court a karate blow. A gentleman ought to walk to the outside when accompanying a lady, but that gesture can mark him indelibly as a male chauvinist. In an age of role reversal, the weak have become strong, and the strong the weak. Ev Dirksen made it out just in time, leaving the rest of male-kind to manage as best it can under difficult circumstances.

WHAT ABOUT RURAL TRANSPORTATION?

There is continued pressure at Jefferson City to get the state to provide money for transportation (mass transit) in the St. Louis and Kansas City areas.

It is a serious problem for these centers of population, but we're inclined to believe that the rest of the state should not be asked to provide tax money for a means of travel for the big population centers.

Big city people may not know it, but in small towns and rural areas like ours, we also have transportation problems. With the elimination of railroad passenger service, curtailment or elimination of bus service, lack of taxis, there are many people here who can't get farther than walking distance from their homes without the help of a neighbor who owns a car.

We wonder if the people of St. Louis and Kansas City would be willing to help us solve that problem by taxing themselves to provide transportation for our people in Monroe County.

We don't believe so.

Our State Representative Osbourn seems to be thinking along the same line expressed above. We think he's right. — Paris Appeal.

AUTO CRASH SURVIVAL SAFEGUARDS STUDIED

New ways to build cars that would enable a restrained motorist to survive a 60 MPH head on crash against a solid object are being researched by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory.

Financed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the research will help determine safety standards for future production-line cars.

A major phase of the research program, CAL said, will be the design and development of a prototype of an actual on the road car. It will incorporate the most promising crashworthiness features conceived by CAL to help motorists survive severe collisions. Cost estimates of the new crashworthiness features will be made.

Three elderly gents were discussing the effects of old age.

The first man, 70, said, "My hearing is going. People have to shout at me to make themselves understood. I can't even hear when a girl whispers yes," he added, smiling.

The second man, 75, said, "It's my eyes that are affected. I can't always recognize faces and so I can't flirt with pretty girls."

The third man, 80, said, "My trouble is worse than either of yours. The other night I wanted to make love to my wife, and she said we had just finished making love. The trouble with me, gentlemen, is my memory is slipping."

LORD HEARS ALL

At bedtime, a little fellow got down on his knees and began saying his prayers. When he was finished he began asking God for the things he wanted for Xmas. He called them out one by one in a particularly loud voice.

His mother said, "You don't need to shout. God isn't deaf."

"I know," he said, "but gran'ma is."

MORE CHAFF THAN NEWS

In the daily news as in nearly everything else, the wheat must be separated from the chaff. There has been a great deal of "news" about electric power reliability, much of it emanating from political sources and much of it calling for more government regulation of one kind or another. The implication is that the electric utility industry, particularly the investor-owned segment of it which accounts for nearly 80 per cent of all electric power generated in the U. S., has been insufficiently progressive in seeking a 100 per cent dependable electric power supply.

News of this kind contains considerable chaff. It overlooks hard grains of fact, mostly because research and development involve technical matters that are hard to understand and even harder to translate into eye-catching news. The taxpaying, investor-owned utility industry is moving ahead now, as in the past, to achieve as nearly as humanly possible the goal of 100 per cent reliability. On the eastern seaboard of the U. S., two major power companies have just completed laying a series of ten-mile long underwater electric transmission lines linking Long Island with New England.

SCHOOL BUSING AGAIN

Some of the leaders of both major political parties are saying at last that school busing simply for the purposes of racial integration is wrong. It is interesting to note that these leaders are from both the North and the South. They are talking about a constitutional amendment that would outlaw forced busing and put the educational process back where it belongs, in the neighborhoods. We have seen the present administration lament the Supreme Court decisions on busing but do nothing to alleviate a situation that both whites and blacks will tell you in private conversation is wrong. Most parents want to keep their youngsters in the neighborhood schools rather than see them spend hour after hour on buses going to neighborhoods across town for schooling. These parents have a valid point. Special committees appointed by district courts to administer the schools are replacing the officials who are elected by the people. The latter know the problems of education. They are dedicated public servants who have always worked without pay and who have tried to hire the best educators available. Education, not socialistic theories, is paramount with them.

The leaders of both parties realize that the school busing issue is probably the most critical of all in the forthcoming elections. With the voters, it surpasses Vietnam and deficit spending and unemployment. Even President Nixon has said he is making a study of the situation.

The future lies with the generation that is now getting its formal education. This has always been true. And it has always been true that politicians, no matter how socialist-minded they may have been, eventually will respond to the mandates of the people.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon's money raisers have opened some 200 accounts in Washington banks to circumvent a campaign fund reform which the President himself signed into law.

The new law requires a public accounting of all campaign contributions over $100.

At the signing ceremony, Nixon hailed this as a "realistic and enforceable... step forward in an area which has been of great public concern." But his noble words were intended for the voters, not the campaign contributors.

The catch is that the law doesn't take effect until April 7. To beat the deadline, the President's own campaign committee has been feverishly opening new accounts in Washington banks.

Under federal law, political contributors are bound by a $5,000 limit. But to prevent hardship at campaign time, the politicians wrote the law so it could be subverted easily.

A man rich enough and motivated enough to contribute $100,000 to a candidate need only to make out 20 checks for $5,000 each. They go to fund-raising organizations with different names but the same base, like pipes from a water main.

To hide the contributions, both parties set up phony financial fronts, usually in the District of Columbia, where there has been no legal requirement to identify the benefactors or their gifts.

All this will now change on April 7, so the President's campaign collectors have been rushing to set up bank accounts under the old law.

His campaign organization is known formally as the Committee for the Re election of the President. It is staffed by ex-White House aides and directed by ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, with ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans as the chief has passer.

Stans has already raised well over $1 million from the fat cats, who would prefer to be anonymous. The money has been funneled into dozens of new accounts, which have been hastily opened in the names of phony "citizens groups."

The phony fronts go by such names as "Loyal Americans for Good Government," "Better Society Committee," "Government Reform Committee, "Balanced Society Committee," "Effective Government Council," and "Good Government Committee."

Most of the accounts have been opened in the prestigious First National Bank of Washington only two blocks from the White House. From his second-floor quarters, President Nixon can almost watch through the bank's huge glass windows as Republican depositiors line up to lay the cash on the line for his reelection.

Not only the bank, but his campaign committee and his former law firm are located in the same building. The law firm has expanded, incidentally, from a one-lawyer to an eleven-lawyer operation since the distinguished former partner moved into the White House down the street.

But is isn't proximity alone which makes the First National a natural repository for the Nixon campaign accounts. The bank's able chairman, Bill Schuiling, is treasurer of the GOP Congressional Boosters Club. A senior vice president, Tudor Whiton, is treasurer of the Republican Senatorial Committee.

And the bank president, Charles Daniel, is a shrewd Republican financial adviser with a deceptive country-boy manner. He refused to comment on the multiple Republican deposits in his vaults.

"We try to protect our depositors." he told us cordially. "Any information concerning their accounts should come from them.

DEATH CAR

While Congress dawdles over a plan to establish independent auto diagnostic centers, thousands of motorists die each year because their states have corrupt, careless, or incompetent auto inspectors.

Nineteen states have none at all.

Even Pennsylvania, which has one of the best inspection systems in the land, does an inadequate job. Consider this bizarre case:

On October 7, Robert R. Pyles of York, Pa., sat in the 1962 Chevrolet he used on his night watchman's job. Because the night was chilly, he rolled up the windows. He slumped to sleep and never awakened.

Medical authorities ruled Pyles died of carbon monoxide poisoning. Yet the car had passed inspection less than two weeks earlier.

On November 10, John E. Rank, a 30-year-old neighbor of the dead man, drove the same 1962 Chevrolet into Maryland. With friends, he stopped for a few drinks at a tavern, grew drowsy and climbed into the car. To keep warm he ran the motor.

Rank's friends left the bar, saw him slumped in the seat and opened the door to turn off the ignition. They left him to "sleep it off." But next day, Rank was still in the car, dead.

The Maryland Medical Examiner's crack chief investigator, W.C. Masemore, quickly discovered that the car, for as long as a year, had a faulty exhaust pipe. The car also had rusted through in several spots, allowing the fumes to leak into the passenger compartment. Yet on the windshield was a Pennsylvania inspection sticker, still less than two months old.

Footnote: Transportation Secretary John Volpe could have cut off up to 10 percent of the highway building funds for states without inspection systems. He has failed to act, however, to avoid a political fuss. Senator Phil Hart, D-Mich., meanwhile has developed legislation to establish a pilot program of independent diagnostic centers to give motorists an honest estimate of what's wrong with their cars.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Big Pension Steal: Hoffa's Jet-flying Protege Caught Looting Teamsters' Billion-Dollar Old-Age Funds

NEW YORK -- Since millionaire, multi-homed Jimmy Hoffa again is warning the world to get out it is only fair to get to know him again -- especially by the company he keeps in blue chips. The Teamsters, after all, aren't the salt pretzel bakers. This is the world's largest union and Hoffa already has launched his campaign inside to convince its high command to reinstate him as president.

In recent weeks his Florida living room was much like a dentist's waiting room. Labor leaders waited their turn to see Jimmy. Word of his "comeback" was enough to bring them back in.

So to know the real Jimmy Hoffa, let's report on his most intimate friend, the 49-year-old insurance tycoon Allen Dorfman, also a millionaire, also with a lovely house for each season in California and Florida, Wisconsin and Chicago.

Dorfman made his millions as a protege of Hoffa's -- and on Feb. 29 was convicted here, virtually unnoticed, on one charge of conspiracy and five counts of wire fraud. Here you have the making of an international thriller. Virtually ever Federal agency has been trying to convict Dorfman for years. But it was 29-year-old, television-imaged, Assistant U.S. Attorney Rick Ben-Veniste, colleague of U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour, Jr., of the New York Southern District, who nailed him.

It took work, as thousands of pages of the trial testimony -- through which I've just gone -- reveal. It has all the ingredients of an international thriller -- an international Swiss banker slips in and out with a bog of cash; secret meetings are held in Hollywood, Fla.'s Hotel Diplomat where the mystery starts on March 27, 1967;

Dorfom begins pumping $55,000 as a kickback on a $1.5 million loan from the Chicago- based Teamsters Central States Southeast and Southwest Pension Fund ($1.4 billion in assets); and $80,000 -a -year Teamsters officials making decisions on million-dollar pension-fund loans.

Dorfman, who traveled handsomely and widely with Hoffa before the Lewisburg saga, got his power and glory from Jimmy. By the time Dorfman really got rolling he owned some 10 insurance companies. He had a virtual monopoly on vast portions of the Teamsters' multi-million dollar health and welfare insurance business. He has the agency which places it. And the company which covers it. Thus he makes the commission and the profit.

Dorfman rarely overlooked making an extra four bits. By grace of Hoffa, Dorfman, son of Chicago's late Red Dorfman, one of the toughest of that city's nether world, became "administrator, officer, custodian (no less), counsel, agent and employe"of the gargantuan fund. For this he was paid $60,000 annually.

At one point he bought a six-seat Lear Jet and rented it to the Teamsters Pension Fund at $30,000 a month. The fund paid the operating costs. Why it needed a jet no one really says. Nor do they reveal why they just didn't rent one on their own.

Just how he justified going into the plane renting business when he was president of the American Overseas Insurance Co. of Chicago, no one explains either. But a buck's a buck. And since he was a fund official he used the plane which they rented from him.

So Dorfman, chosen as a consultant just as Hoffa was heading for prison, waltzed the fund's millions around. There is Boca Tica, for example (so spelled "Tica" in the court transcripts). This isn't a song. It's a Florida country club-type development. It got a $5 million loan. Then another half-million dollars. All from the fund which Dorfman advised, and of which he was "custodian." Supposedly watching the money being put aside for the Teamsters in their old age.

Then it develops that Boca Tica belonged to something called World Wide Realty in which Dorfman held 25,000 shares. Dorfman pushed the loan through the fund's "Steering committee" dominated by Jimmy Hoffa friends such as the Teamsters Ninth National Vice Preisdent William Presser who was chairman of the committee.

There were several $1.5 million loans from the fund. One to a non-solvent Miami hotel. And there is something called "Cove Inn," of which Dorfman owned a third. It was dark, dormant, unused. Yet it too got a $1.5 million loan.

It is on a $1.5 million loan to a textile firm called Neisco Corp. that Dorfman got nailed. There was "relaxed supervision" of the money, its uses and the firm's assets. For pushing this loan through Dorfman got $55,000 in cash and conviction on six counts. But all this is peanuts. It took hard and dogged digging by young Ben-Veniste.

This is a new generation of prosecutors. They don't think Hoffa or his friends are tough. Hoffa wants a showdown with them. He'll get it from them.

Columnist Testifies

Rate Kleindienst Unfit For Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson told Senate investigators today that Richard G. Kleindienst is unfit to be attorney general because he is not a "man who understands the law and respects the truth."

Despite his disclaimers, acting Atty. Gen. Kleindienst played a major role in settlement of three antitrust suits against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., Anderson testified to the Judiciary Committee.

As a result of columns written by Anderson last week, the committee is taking new testimony relating to Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general.

"There has been a concerted effort to conceal the truth about ITT's settlement of its antitrust battle with the Justice Department," Anderson said in a statement prepared for the committee. This effort began before we published our first column on the subject and has continued without interruption ...

"The public record on this episode is blotted with falsehood. The aura of scandal hangs over the whole matter. It will not be dispelled merely by the self-serving disclaimers of present and former members of the (Nixon) administration and officials of ITT," Anderson said.

Anderson's columns, based on a memorandum attributed to ITT lobbyist Dita D. Beard, suggested that the Justice Department agreement to settle the suits against ITT was linked to the conglomerate's purported $400,000 commitment to the Republican National Convention.

Kleindienst has denied the suggestion and says the memo is false.

"There can be no doubt that Mr. Kleindienst played a major role in the settlement of the ITT antitrust cases," Anderson said. "He helped bring about a settlement experts have denounced as a sham. Having done this, he issued an utterly disingenuous statement about the matter indicating he had no role whatever ...

"This country needs as its top law-enforcement officer a man who understands the law and respects the truth," the columnist said. "Richard Kleindienst is not such a man. He is unfit to be attorney general."

Anderson contends the settlement was arranged mainly by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Mrs. Beard, who is yet to testify because she is hospitalized in Denver.

Mitchell, who resigned March 1 to run President Nixon's reelection campaign, was scheduled to testify after Anderson, according to chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Kleindienst, Richard McLaren, former head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, and Felix Rohatyn, an ITT director, completed more than 13 hours of testimony before the committee Wednesday.

Kleindienst repeated his denial that the White House was involved in the settlement.

He also denied participating in the settlement although he acknowledged meeting Rohatyn in his office to discuss the financial hardship ITT would suffer from divestiture of several companies.

Abortion Hearing Crowded

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Janitors were busy in the wee hours today cleaning up debris left by an overflowing crowd at Wednesday night's hearing on a bill to repeal Missouri's abortion law.

The emotion-packed delegations to support or oppose the measure were opinionated—and messy.

Custodians swept up crumpled "Right To Life" and "Repeal" stickers—silent reminders of identity tags worn by both side of the issue—along with soda cans, gum and candy wrappers and other litter left by the overflowing crowd. They had a deadline to restore the dignity of the House of Representatives' chambers before today's session opened.

House civil and criminal procedure committee chairman Harold L. Holliday, D-Kansas City, held a tight reen on the procedings that occasionally threatened to get out of hand. At one point in the testimony, Rep. Thomas Ryan, D-Kansas City, who opposed the bill, complained to Holliday of hecklers, but a rap of the gavel silenced that.

Rep. DeVerne Calloway, DSt. Louis, sponsor of the measure, said she has changed her mind about liberalizing abortion laws—a proposal she sponsored last year—in favor of repealing the law. She said under present law a doctor can be charged with manslaughter for performing an abortion.

"I have come to the conclusion," she said, "That the only way to resolve the controversy is to repeal the present law ... which would leave the matter strictly between a woman, her doctor and her God ... And that is as it should be ..."

She contends present law merely forces women to the back alley "quack."

Principal witness for Mrs. Calloway's proposal was a Colorado state representative who led the campaign to liberalize Colorado's law. He now favors repeal.

Colorado Rep. Richard D. Lamm, D-Denver, said the 1967 law "has done little or nothing to solve the public health epidemic called illegal abortion." He said it discriminates against the poor with legal red tape.

Fourteen individuals testified in support of the repeal representing the Missouri Council of Churches, the Teamsters Union, the legal and medical professions, women's liberation and the National Organization of Women, to name a few.

Opponents included the "right to life" group and a number of similar organizations, most of whom appeared at a hearing last month on a house bill which would make abortion illegal "from the moment of conception."

Rep. Earl Schlef, D-Dellwood, co-sponsor of the bill to tighten abortion laws, introduced a long line of opponents—many the same ones who appeared for his bill.

Wheat Seed Shipment Blamed For 1,000 Dying

BEIRUT (AP) — A shipment of wheat seed from Canada or the United States is blamed for an outbreak of mercury poisoning in Iraq that travelers say has taken as many as 1,000 lives.

But the travelers said the seeds, distributed for planting only, were packed in sacks plainly marked with skull and crossbones.

The reports received here tallied in many respects with one given in Stockholm Wednesday by a Swedish scientist. However, he said thousands had died from eating the seeds, which were treated with a mercury compound as protection against rats and other pests.

The travelers arriving in Beirut gave these details:

Peasant farmers ignored the poison warnings and fed the seed to cattle or ground them up as flour for themselves.

The entire meat market soon was contaminated, and the sale of local meat was banned.

With reports coming in of hundreds of cases of poisoning, the government ordered the seed to be handed back, and the death penalty was decreed for anyone caught selling it.

Frightened peasants dumped the seed in the Tigris River, and the sale of local fish also had to be banned.

As many as 1,000 people may have died, and several thousand others are suffering from brain damage, blindness and paralysis.

Several foreign women in Baghdad have had abortions, fearing that the poison may affect their unborn children.

Ann Landers

Dad Quits Drinking, Everybody's Happy

Dear Ann Landers: You've printed lots of letters from kids who are unhappy because their fathers drink. But I don't think you've ever printed a letter from a teen-ager whose father stopped drinking. Here's one.

For as long as I can remember my dad and mom had trouble because he never came home from work when he was supposed to. When he did come home he was plopped.

On weekends he'd get completely smashed. About a year ago mom told him to get some help and shape up or she was going to a divorce lawyer. She said it was absolutely his last chance. Well, that did it. My life is so different now I can barely believe it.

Dad is home after work every night at 6:15. Our whole family has dinner together. I just found out he is really smart. He can talk intelligently on many subjects. We never knew it because he never made any sense at night and in the morning he was too hung over to talk. I'm not afraid to invite company to the house anymore. I used to shudder when my friends came over because I never knew what shape dad would be in. When he was drinking his language wasn't the best.

Last summer we took our first real vacation. We're going to do it again in July. Life is so great when you have something to look forward to.

I wonder if men who drink realize what a difference their boozing makes to their families. Tell them, will you? --A Happy Kid

Dear Happy Kid: You told them --- and in a way that I never could. You don't say whether your dad went to A.A., a counselor or if he quit cold. The last approach might seem easiest but it's the most difficult. It CAN be done, however. My congratulations to your dad and my thanks to you for a day-brightener.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for twelve years. We get along well together and have no problems we can't resolve before we turn out the light at night. Something is bothering me, however, and I don't want to mention it to Phil. It's his mother's frequent references to his hair. Phil is only 36 but his hair is salt and pepper. It doesn't bother me in the least, in fact, I like it. When we were married he was only 24 and had some gray in his hair even then.

My mother-in-law implies that I am the cause of her son's gray hair. For example, she'll say, "Phil, dear, your hair is turning so fast ---is your wife worrying you into old age?"

Although she does it in a kidding way it irks me. Does gray hair have anything to do with worry? What should I say? ---At A Loss For Words.

Dear Loss: Gray hair has nothing to do with worrying. It's an inherited characteristic. Chances are good that Phil is getting his gray hair from his mother, not you, dear. Wise him up so HE can tell her.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been reading your column since I was eight years old. I am 14 now and I want to pay you back for all the things I have learned. Here are some facts that I'll bet you don't know:

The fruit fly has 8 chromosomes. The pea plant has 14. Corn has 20. Lemons have 46. The crayfish has 200. In humans and all mammals the male chromosome pair is X and Y. The female pair is XX. In the bird world it is reversed. The male bird has two identical chromosomes whereas the hen has two different ones. Are you surprised?----Mobile, Ala.

Dear Mo: Am I surprised? Wow! I had no idea. Thanks for the fill in. If a crayfish writes in and asks how many chromosomes he has I'll be able to tell him.

World Day Of Prayer

Last Friday afternoon the Tanner Street Church of God was the scene of an impressive ecumenical gathering of Christians from 13 area churches. Over 65 men and women joined together to pray for peace. It was one of thousands such groups which met all over the world on that day.

The program opened with the hymn, "Open Now Thy Gates of Beauty" sung by the congregation accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Carl Schorle together with Mrs. Vernon Guttenfelder at the piano.

Mrs. Don Bohannon of Tanner Street Church of God led the prayers in the section "We offer Joyful Thanksgiving," assisted by Mrs. A. M. Jackson of Trinity Baptist Church and Mrs. Kendall Sikes of St. Paul Episcopal Church. Readings and prayers in the part "We recognize Joy and Suffering dwell side by side" were presented byMrs. Joe McCord from The First Christian Church and Mrs. Joel Montgomery of The First Presbyterian.

MU Accepts NIT Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana, Missouri and Lafayette said yes, but Ohio State said no.

The Buckeyes turned down an invitation to the National Invitation basketball Tournament Wednesday after the other three teams had accepted.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor said only that he had taken a vote of his players, and that it was negative. The Buckeyes currently are second in the Big Ten race while Indiana is fourth.

The addition of the three teams Wednesday brought the field to 11 and left five open berths in the 35-year-old postseason tournament, which starts March 17 at Madison Square Garden.

A few of the spots no doubt will be saved for teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference, which now is holding a playoff, and for the winner of the Missouri Valley Conference playoff game between Louisville and Memphis State Saturday.

Indiana and Missouri will be making their first appearances in the nation's oldest postseason tournament. Lafayette will be in for the third time.

Indiana has a 16-7 record and winds up the regular season Saturday against Purdue.

Missouri, the Big Eight runnerup, has a 20-5 record with a game remaining against Oklahoma Saturday night. Coach Norm Stewart's club is led by 6-7 John Brown.

Lafayette, a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference, last attended the NIT in 1956. In their first year under Coach Tom Davis, the Leopards won 20 of 25 games.

Missouri Signs Six

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri announced Wednesday the signing of six Kansas City area high school football players to Big Eight letters-of-intent.

Coach Al Onofrio noted four of the six had won all-state honors.

Those signed included: Chris Cummings, Rockhurst, and Ray Miller, West Platte of Weston, both quarterbacks; Roland (Butch) Allen, split end and defensive back from Harrisonville; Jerry Williams, defensive back and split end from Raytown South, Tom Hulsey, fullback and linebacker from Kansas City Southwest, and Brian Meyers, center and defensive tackle from Rockhurst.

Cummings, Meyers, Allen and Hulsey were all-state selections. Williams was all-conference, all-district and all-metro at Raytown South, and Miller was all-clnference at Weston.

SEMO State Signs Morrow

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Although a good bit of basketball is still being played, the Southeast Missouri State College season is past history and Coach Bob Cradic is looking to next year.

He signed his first recruit this week, Mike Morrow, a 6-2 guard who averaged 26 points and 17 rebounds a game this season in leading his team to its best record in history.

Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morrow of Diehlstadt, played at Kelly High School near Benton and was named to all-conference and all-district teams.

"Mike is an exceptionally hard worker and a great competitor," praised Coach Cradic. "He has outstanding quickness, and we think he will make an outstanding college guard."

Mike Morrow

Cradic added that Morrow can jump 10 feet, 8 inches, "higher than any of our guards can reach."

In averaging 26 points a game this season, Morrow hit 50 per cent of his field goal attempts and 72 per cent of his free throw tries. His single game high was 38 points against Advance.

His best rebounding performance also came against Advance when he grabbed 29 shots off the boards.

Kelly High finished the season with a 19-8 record.

Besides basketball, Morrow is also a baseball player. Although listed as a pitcher, he had a .400 batting average last season.

Sports Briefs

Last season the New York Knicks won 32 of their 41 regular season home games in Madison Square Garden.

Majestic Prince, 1969 Kentucky Derby winner, was sold by Spendthrift Farm to Frank McMahon for $250,000 at the 1967 Keeneland yearling sales.

Greg Fillmore, at 7-1, is the tallest basketball player in the history of the New York Knicks.

Miami's annual International Boat Show, which drew 279,000 visitors last winter, will be held next Feb. 18-23 in Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Ray Federici of Paterson, N.J., will captain Army's 1972 tennis team.

Track Season Opens

Sprinter Curtis Bean and hurdler Jeff Fansler lead a contingent of Sikeston thin clads into their first indoor track meet of the season Friday night when the Bulldogs host 11 schools in the third annual Indoor invitational at SHS field house.

Coach Jim Graham noted that the team is young and inexperienced and will be facing a stiff test in their season opener.

Participants will be Cape Central, Charleston, Poplar Bluff, Jackson, Perryville, Dexter, Kennett, East Prairie, Caruthersville and Chaffee.

Field events get started at 6 p.m. in the spacious domed indoor field house. Preliminaries for the running events start at 7 p.m. with finals set to get underway at 7:30.

SHS will host class L, M and S schools next week for indoor qualifications for the state event at Columbia March 24. A total of 15 schools are expected next Friday.

Cape Central Eliminated

ST. LOUIS — Sharp shooting Sumner high school used a deadly out-side scoring attack and a 10 point fourth quarter scoring spree by Richard Yates to move into the semifinals of the Missouri Class L high school basketball tournament Wednesday night and eliminate Cape Girardeau Central, 69-61.

The 1969 state champs shot their way out of a 37-34 halftime deficit with an unbelieveable 66 per cent shooting mark the second half. Coach Ron Coleman's Bulldogs took a 23-12 third quarter advantage and never trailed and build up as much as 13 point advantage in the fourth period.

Cape Central started very cold in its shooting, missing eight five foot shots in the first half before settling down to move into the halftime advantage. But the Bengals started the second half in the same manner as they did the game and before the eight minute period was over the Tigers were well on their way out of the sate tournament and headed for their fourth defeat in 28 games this season.

Randy Carter came off the Central bench to score 19 points and lead the Tigers second quarter spurt and wind up as the Bengals high point man on the night. Dick Buxton placed second with 18 points.

Pierre Blake had 23 points to pace all scorers on the night and led the Bulldogs to their 18th win in 27 games.

Stewart Comments

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Coach Norm Stewart said Wednesday his club's entry in the National Invitational Tournament was "very good tonic" for not winning the Big Eight Conference basketball championship.

Missouri lost its title bid Tuesday night with a 79-76 loss to Kansas State. The victory gave the Wildcats the league crown.

Missouri's record is now 20-5 with a game remaining Saturday against Oklahoma. The Tigers will be making their first appearance in the NIT, set for March 17-25.

Stewart said he was not surprised his 18-th-ranked Tigers were selected for the 16-team NIT field prior to their final game.

But, he said, the club was still disappointed at failure to win the Big Eight crown and a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs.

"They (the players) had set their goal to win the conference and you don't just shrug it off and say, 'Well, we didn't get it.' But now the team gets another opportunity to play in a nationally-recognized tournament and we're very happy."

KC Fans Riot

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — A referee's decision erupted into a chair-throwing riot Wednesday night as Raytown South defeated Kansas City Central in a Missouri High School Class L basketball quarterfinal at Maryville, 52-50, in overtime.

At least 13 persons in the near capacity crowd of 3,000 were treated for injuries at St. Francis Hospital here, although none was admitted. One witness, Rodney Couts of the Maryville Daily Forum, estimated another 75 to 100 suffered various degrees of minor injuries.

Referee Larry Zirbel called goal tending on Central's Ed Benton, and chalked up two points for Raytown's Ed Stoll. It was the winning margin, coming with two seconds left in overtime. A crowd of Central fans poured onto the floor and were finally coaxed off, only to come roaring back when a desperation shot by Central failed and the final gun sounded.

The fans charged Raytown players, coaches and fans, and began flinging folding chairs into the crowd. Couts said he saw several persons knocked out by flying chairs.

He said players, coa and officials appeared t everything possible to the violence. One Ce player was seen pullin Raytown player out fro cluster of irate Central

GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES signs a proclamation designating Sept. 23, 1972 as Hunting and Fishing Day in Missouri. At center is Ed Stegner, executive secretary of the Conservation Federation, largest citizen conservation group in the state. At right is Carl Noren, director of the Missouri Department of Conservation.

JEFFERSON CITY -- Nearly 25 percent of Missouri's citizens buy a hunting or fishing permit -- some 1,290,059 of them in 1970, the latest year for which all the figures are in.

That is nearly as many as the 1,809,502 people who voted in Missouri in the 1968 Presidential election. It is nearly as many people as the whole state had 80 years ago (1,662,556). It is more than 2½ times as many people as Missouri had a hundred years ago.

To honor these hunters and fishermen Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has signed a proclamation officially recognizing National Hunting and Fishing Day Sept. 23, 1972.

The first such day was in 1971 and 23 states honored their hunting and fishing outdoorsmen. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre of New Hampshire and Rep. Robert Sikes of Florida introduced identical resolutinns in the United States Congress asking the President to declare the fourth Saturday of each September as National Hunting and Fishing Day.

Sen. McIntyre's resolution is co- sponsored by 32 senators and Rep. Sikes' resolution has 13 identical resolutions from other representatives.

The day not only would honor hunters and fishermen, but also the idea of conservation -- since the leading supporters of the conservation movement in the nation have been the outdoor sportsmen, both with money and philosophical support.

The objective of the 1972 Hunting and Fishing Day will be to have every hunting, fishing and conservation club in America hold an open house to introduce the public to outdoor skills.

Missouri's largest such organization is the Conservation Federation which is the spokesman for conservation in legislative matters, as well as in daily life. The Federation has about 22,000 members over the state.

Information for clubs on how to have their open house is in a booklet available for a dollar from NHF Day, 1075 Post Road, Riverside, Conn. 06878.

As part of such open houses, clubs will offer visitors a chance to shoot arrows at archery targets or shotguns at clay birds or take part in a fishing clinic.

Gov. Hearnes proclamation for Missouri reads as follows:

WHEREAS: The value of an hour in the woods at sunrise or the ripple of a fishing plug on quiet waters cannot be measured by economic terms, but only by priceless tranquility; AND,

WHEREAS: Hunting and fishing occupy the leisure hours of at least one- quarter of Missouri's citizens; AND,

WHEREAS: America is a hunting and fishing nation traditionally, from the first Thanksgiving dinner gathered by Pilgrim forefathers from the land; AND,

WHEREAS: Leading conservationists and naturalists of American history, such as John James Audubon and Theodore Roosevelt, also have been hunters and fishermen; AND,

WHEREAS: The nation's hunters and fishermen, have financed the return and maintenance of many species of wildlife to our lands and waters, NOW,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the fourth Saturday of September each year, and September 23 in 1972 be declared HUNTING AND FISHING DAY IN MISSOURI, with appropriate recognition of the very real contributions made by the state's sportsmen toward preservation of resources that benefit all Missourians.

New State Forest

DONIPHAN — The Department of Conservation has bought a 2,322- acre area eight miles north of Doniphan in Ripley County off Higheay 21 which will be known as the Little Black State Forest.

The tract was bought from Sherman Spurlock, originally from the Doniphan area, who now lives in Georgia. Most of the land is forested and the south fork of the Little Black River crosses it.

The area will have a complete management plan worked out, including wildlife and fisheries, as well as forestry.

Archery Ranks Swell

JEFFERSON CITY -- The bowtwanging ranks swelled again in 1971 with the addition of nearly 1,000 archery deer hunters.

There were 17,840 archery tags bought in 1971, compared to 16,950 in 1970. Archers took 962 deer during the three- month 1971 season, an all-time high.

The season for several years has begun Oct. 1 and run through the end of the year.

Schoendienst Names Pitchers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals are getting ready for their first exhibition game here Saturday against the New York Mets.

Manager Red Schoendienst said he intends to use as pitchers the newly-acquired Rick Wise, Jim Maloney and Dennis Higgins.

In an intrasquad game Wednesday righthander Al Santorini and rookie outfielder Jorge Roque were standouts as the Vern Benson team beat the Ken Boyers, 11-5.

Santorini, 23, who has not won a major league game in nearly two seasons, pitched three scoreless innings for the Bensons. Roque pounded out three hits.

Reporting to the training camp Wednesday were catcher Ted Simmons and outfielderfirst baseman Bob Burda. Both were called to camp under baseball's renewal clause although they have not agreed to salary terms.

Still missing from camp is salary holdout Joe Torre, third baseman who has not been given orders to report. Pitcher Jerry Reuss was said to be enroute from St. Louis.

Reserve Clause Used Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Management took the play away from the players in baseball Wednesday.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, invoked the controversial reserve clause on holdout pitcher Vida Blue.

Bing Devine, the general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, drew attention by not doing the same to Joe Torre.

And the American League considered the possible sale of the Cleveland Indians.

Finley announced that he would use the reserve clause in an attempt to settle contract problems with Blue, last year's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young winner in the American League.

The owner sent a "letter of renewal" and 1972 contract for $50,000 to the 22-year-old lefthander.

Blue, who made $14,500 last year and has been asking $92,000, responded to Finley's act through his attorney, Robert Gerst.

"Blue won't sign the contract," said Gerst. "Vida's willing to play this year for $50,000—so long as he does not have to sign a contract and is a free agent at the end of the year."

The reserve clause, under attack in the Curt Flood suit filed in 1969, binds a player to a team for one year after his contract expires. The club is required to pay the athlete at least 80 per cent of his prior year's salary.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., Devine's inaction to pull the same reserve clause on Torre raised eyebrows.

The Cardinal general manager had invoked the clause against holdouts Ted Simmons, a catcher, pitcher Jerry Reuss and first baseman Bob Burda earlier in the week.

There was no immediate explanation from management on why Devine neglected to send Torre a letter of renewal.

Torre, last year's Most Valuable Player in the National League, made about $100,000 last season and is holding out for $50,000 more. The All-Star third baseman is the only Cardinal absentee from camp.

Another major off-the-field matter involved Nick Mileti, who hopes to buy the Indians from Vernon Stouffer.

Representatives of the 12 American League clubs met for seven hours in Sarasota, Fla., but postponed until March 22 a decision on the proposed $9 million sale.

Mileti, owner of the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association and the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, heads a group of five Cleveland businessmen who wish to keep the Indians' franchise in the city.

In Wednesday's exhibition games, the San Francisco Giants reached Chicago Cubs' ace Ferguson Jenkins for five runs in the first two innings and went on to a 10-8 triumph; Jay Johnstone hit a grand slam home run in the 14th inning, helping the Chicago White Sox beat the Boston Red Sox 11-7; Minnesota ripped into Steve Blass for three runs in both the second and third innings for a 7-3 triumph over Pittsburgh; Texas got four runs in the first two innings off New York starter Fritz Peterson and beat the Yankees 6-2 and Dave Schneck singled home the winning run in the 12th inning as the New York Mets edged the Detroit Tigers 4-3.

Unexpected Need To Force Natural Gas Prices Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness says the unexpected heavy demand for low-cost natural gas will force prices up, causing rationing and more imports.

George Lincoln told the Senate Interior Committee Thursday the low prices have caused a run on the supplies which would not have occurred if the natural gas had been priced "as high as oil and coal."

"You're saying that Congress may have to provide legislation to set (energy-use) priorities," asked Sen. Mike Gravel, DAlaska.

What's The Law

Trust Draws Dust

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Susan decided to ship off on the Sea of Matrimony, at the age of 19, she also decided that she needed some loot to insure the success of the venture. Consequently, she filed a petition in court for permission to withdraw five grand from a trust account that was being held for her benefit until she reached the vererable age of 21.

"While being in love is O.K.," she told the judge, "without money, a marriage doesn't stand a chance. And, with the $5,000 I want, I can toss a wing-ding of a wedding and make a bundle. Because for every $5 per person spent, I'll get back at least $20 per person in wedding presents. I'd have a nest egg and be able to furnish a lovely home to boot. "Obviously," she concluded, "spending the money on the wedding would be a far better investment than letting the five thousand bucks continue to rot in a bank account for another two years at a crummy low rate of interest."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the financially astute bride to withdraw the $5,000 for her wedding?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! While permitting a partial withdrawal, the judge held that there was no reason to believe that the permanency of a marriage bears any relationship to the amount spent on the wedding. Nor should gifts, although substantial and of benefit to the bride, be viewed as a "quid pro quo" exchange for permitting guests to come to the wedding. Furthermore, concluded the judge, wedding presents are at best a haphazard way of obtaining home furnishings. (Based upon a 1964 New York Surrogate's Court Decision)

Life Sentence Term Upheld

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court today upheld the conviction and life sentence of Joseph Arthur Boyer J4. for shooting Larry James Smith Sept. 17, 1969 during the robbery of a filling station near Pevely, Mo.

In other murder cases the court:

Agreed with the St. Louis Circuit Court that Robert Lee Johnson was properly convicted and sentenced to life for killing Sam Travis, owner of Travis Coffectionary at Webster and Thomas street in St. Louis May 23, 1968.

Found that Abraham W. Skaggs had no grounds to appeal a life sentence for killing a young girl while sexually molesting her. He was convicted Nov. 2, 1960 but the appeal was not filed until more than nine years later.

Gave Mrs. Virginia C. Randall a new trial because her self defense plea was not properly presented to the jury.

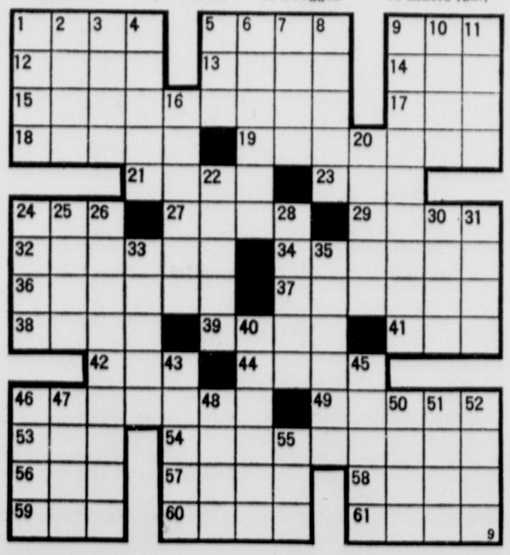
Answer to Previous Puzzle



R FOR TODAY

from David Shy Rph.

Why do humans crave alcohol? Now Dr. Robert S. Pogrund has come up with a new idea – smog. He recently exposed 10 rats to air with smog content and offered them a free choice of 4 liquids – plain water, a sugar solution, a saccharin solution and alcohol. Initially, 20 rats preferred water. After 3 weeks the 10 smog breathing rats turned to alcohol. Does smog trigger a similar reaction in humans? No one knows for sure.

Steele Voters Approve Bonds

STEELE (Special) — Steele voters overwhelmingly approved bond issues totaling almost half- a- million dollars yesterday for improvements projects which will benefit the proposed maximum security prison site.

Although more than 500 voters turned out for the city election, only 73 negative votes were cast. The propositions will raise the city tax rate 49 cents and result in an average 25 per cent increase in water and sewer rates.

The unofficial vote tally on the propositions were as follows:

Proposition One, issuing general obligation bonds in the mount of $75,000 for the purpose of constructing a road on the city- owned airport and industrial park-prison site: 458 for, 73 against.

Proposition Three, issuing combined waterworks and sewerage system revenue bonds in the amount of $325,000 to extend and improve the combined water and sewer systems: 476 for, 54 against.

City officials who have worked to obtain the prison location in Steele called yesterday's victory at the polls a "definite vote of confidence" on behalf of the city's residents.
